Introduction

1. The Governing Council of the United Nations Compensation Commission (the “Commission”), at its twenty-first session in 1996, appointed the present Panel of Commissioners, composed of Messrs. Bernard Audit (Chairman), José María Abascal and David D. Caron (the “Panel” or the “E2 Panel”) to review “E2” claims. These claims were submitted by non-Kuwaiti corporations, public sector enterprises and other private legal entities (excluding oil sector, construction/engineering, export guarantee/insurance and environmental claimants). This report contains the Panel’s recommendations to the Governing Council, pursuant to article 38(e) of Governing Council decision 10 (the Provisional Rules for Claims Procedure or the “Rules”), concerning the ninth instalment of “E2” claims.

2. This instalment consists of 141 claims and involves a total claimed amount of USD 1,591,098,315. 1/ Of this total, 138 claims were filed by 29 Governments on behalf of claimant companies and three claims were submitted directly by claimants. Prior to the Panel’s completion of its review of the claims, seven claims were withdrawn by claimants, two claims were transferred by the Executive Secretary to a different Panel to be considered with related claims and one claim was transferred to a later instalment of “E2” claims. In addition, elements of five claims relating to the loss of use of the claimant’s funds have been deferred to a later instalment of “E2” claims where this issue will be addressed by the Panel. The Panel has made recommendations on the remaining portions of these claims in this instalment. Hence, in this report, the Panel reviews 131 claims involving a claimed amount of USD 1,383,388,570. These claims were submitted by corporations, public sector enterprises and other legal entities primarily operating in the professional services and transport sectors. All but one of the claimants are incorporated under the national law of a given State. This other claimant, a legal entity registered in the State of Kuwait, was created by agreement among six States, including the Republic of Iraq. Paragraph 11 of Governing Council decision 7 holds that the Commission will not consider claims made by or on behalf of Iraqi nationals who do not have a bona fide nationality of another State. The Panel finds that this provision does not apply to and therefore does not bar consideration of the mentioned claim. 2/

3. The claims in this instalment were selected by the secretariat of the Commission (the “secretariat”) from the “E2” claims on the basis of criteria that include (a) the date of filing with the Commission, (b) the claimant’s type of business activity and (c) the type of loss claimed. Section I provides an overview of the claims. The procedure followed by the Panel in processing the claims is described in section II. The legal principles generally applicable to the claims are described in section III.

4. The role and tasks of a panel of Commissioners, the applicable law and criteria, the liability of Iraq and a description of the applicable evidentiary requirements have been stated in detail in this Panel’s report and recommendations concerning the first instalment of “E2” claims. 3/ Within this framework, three tasks have been entrusted to the Panel. First, the Panel must determine whether the various types of losses alleged by claimants are, in principle, compensable before the Commission and, if so, the appropriate criteria for the valuation of compensation. Second, it must verify whether the losses that are in principle compensable have in fact been incurred by a given claimant. Third, the Panel must value those losses found to be compensable and recommend awards thereon. The implementation of these tasks with regard to the present instalment is described in section IV. Certain incidental issues are discussed in section V. The Panel's overall recommendations are contained in section VI and a tabular summary of the particular recommendations with respect to each claim is attached as annex II.

I. OVERVIEW OF THE CLAIMS

5. The claimants are companies and government enterprises that were primarily operating in the professional services and transport industries as of 2 August 1990. The services claimants were engaged in a variety of sectors, ranging from traditional professions, such as engineering, accountancy, law, surveying, advertising, loss adjusting, primary and secondary schooling and health care, to contemporary occupations, such as computer design and maintenance services and graphic design. Claimants from the transport industry include two port authorities and a number of companies which performed air, shipping, rail or road transport operations. Other transport claimants provided ancillary services to airlines or shipping companies and include freight forwarders, transport agents, cargo handlers, fuel suppliers, caterers and technicians. In addition, a number of claimants were engaged in the repair and maintenance of industrial machinery and equipment in the transport and other sectors.

6. Many claimants had either business premises in the Middle East region or contracts to provide goods or services to customers located in the Middle East. The claimants allege that Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait disrupted these ongoing business activities. Some claimants seek compensation for the non-payment of goods or services provided under the contracts. In the case of contracts that were interrupted prior to completion of performance, claimants typically claim for the costs incurred in performing the contracts or the loss of anticipated profits. Other claimants seek to recover the loss of profits from discontinued or reduced business operations. A number of these claimants have also claimed for tangible property losses, evacuation costs and the increased costs of operations, including additional insurance, fuel and staff costs.

7. Claimants engaged in the airline, shipping, rail and road transportation industries have submitted claims for loss of profits resulting from interrupted or reduced operations to destinations to, from or within the Middle East. Others allege an increase in the cost of operations relating to war risk insurance premiums, fuel costs, re-routing of operations, evacuation costs and other staff costs.

8. The claimants allege a variety of reasons for such losses, including the ongoing military operations or the threat of military action, actions of Iraqi officials during the occupation of Kuwait, civil unrest in Iraq and Kuwait, the taking of hostages and general risks in the area.

9. The various types of losses for which the claimants seek compensation are discussed in greater detail in section IV below.

II. PROCESSING OF THE CLAIMS / PROCEDURAL MATTERS

10. Pursuant to article 16 of the Rules, the Executive Secretary of the Commission reported the significant new legal and factual issues raised by the claims in his thirty-second report dated 6 July 2000 (the "article 16 report"). Pursuant to paragraph 3 of article 16, a number of Governments, including the Government of the Republic of Iraq ("Iraq"), submitted information and their views on the issues raised in the Executive Secretary's report.

11. The secretariat made a preliminary assessment of the claims in order to determine whether each claim met the formal requirements established by the Governing Council in article 14 of the Rules. As provided by article 15 of the Rules, deficiencies identified were communicated to the claimants in order to give them the opportunity to remedy those deficiencies.

12. The Panel was presented with the claims by the Executive Secretary pursuant to article 32 of the Rules on 11 January 2001 and was briefed upon them by the secretariat. In a procedural order of the same date, the Panel classified the claims as "unusually large or complex" within the meaning of article 38(d) of the Rules, in view of the large number of claims, the variety of the issues raised, the volume of documentation submitted with the claims, and the time afforded to Iraq to provide written comments with respect to the claim files transmitted to Iraq pursuant to the procedural orders described in paragraph 15 below.

13. Given those same factors, as well as the complexity of the verification and valuation issues in these claims, the Panel requested expert advice pursuant to article 36 of the Rules. This advice was provided by accounting and loss adjusting consultants (the "expert consultants") retained to assist the Panel.

14. The secretariat and the expert consultants undertook a preliminary review of the claims in order to identify any additional information and documentation that would assist the Panel in properly verifying and valuing the claims. After consultation with the Panel, and pursuant to article 34 of the Rules, notifications were dispatched to the claimants (the "article 34 notifications"), in which claimants were asked to respond to a series of questions concerning the claims and to provide additional documentation.

15. In its second procedural order dated 11 September 2000 and its sixth procedural order dated 20 November 2000, the Panel instructed the secretariat to transmit to Iraq the claimants' documents in relation to 32 claims: in particular, those claims (1) based on letters of credit issued by Iraqi banks; (2) involving bilateral agreements with Iraq; or (3) relating to transactions with an Iraqi party in respect of which the Panel considered that Iraq's comments would facilitate its review of the claim. Iraq was invited to submit its comments on such documentation and to respond to questions posed by the Panel by 12 March 2001 in respect to the claims transmitted under the second procedural order and by 21 May 2001 in respect to the claims transmitted under the sixth procedural order. Iraq responded to the second procedural order on 7 May 2001 and to the sixth procedural order on 11 June 2001. All comments and responses of Iraq were nonetheless considered by the Panel as part of its review of the claims, since such consideration did not delay the Panel's completion of its review and evaluation of the claims within the time period provided for under the Rules.

16. In verifying the claims, valuing the losses and determining the appropriate amount of compensation, if any, the Panel took into consideration the information and documentation provided by the claimants in response to the article 34 notifications, Iraq's comments and documents filed in response to the questions raised in the Panel's second and sixth procedural orders, and the comments by a number of Governments in response to the thirty-second article 16 report. The Panel also considered the claim files and claim-specific reports prepared by the secretariat and the expert consultants under the Panel's supervision and guidance. The Panel applied the verification and valuation procedures and methods described in its previous reports. 4/ Where necessary, the Panel adapted these procedures and methods to take into account specific aspects of the claims in this instalment.

17. In reviewing the claims, the Panel, consistent with its previous practice, has taken measures to ensure that, as mandated by Governing Council decisions 7 and 13, compensation is not awarded more than once for the same loss. 5/ Accordingly, the Panel has, among other things, requested the secretariat to conduct the necessary cross-checks whenever it appeared that the loss under review might have given rise to another claim before the Commission. 6/ Where a claim has been found to be compensable in this instalment and compensation for the same loss has been awarded in another claim, the amount of compensation awarded in the other claim has been deducted from the compensation calculated for the claim in this instalment. Where it appears that another claim for the same loss is pending before the Commission, the relevant information is provided to the Panel reviewing the other claim so that multiple compensation is avoided. In two circumstances where the Panel considered that a transfer would facilitate a consistent determination, claims in this instalment have been transferred by the Executive Secretary to another panel before which the related claim is pending.

18. Similarly, Governing Council decision 7 requires the deduction of compensation from any other source in respect of the loss claimed before the Commission. Accordingly, payments received by a claimant from its insurers have been deducted from the compensation to be awarded for the claim in this instalment. Some claimants have submitted claims on behalf of insurers, including governmental export-credit guarantee agencies. Consistent with its previous findings, the Panel concludes that claims submitted in respect of losses for which indemnities had been received from insurers "are not admissible unless the claimant produces a mandate from the insurance company confirming that the claimant is authorized to seek in its own name compensation on behalf of the insurer". 7/ In one claim under review brought on behalf of a governmental export-credit guarantee agency to recover the insured portion of a loss, the claimant demonstrated that it was obligated, under the insurance policy, to pursue recovery on behalf of the agency. Accordingly, the Panel finds that the requirement of a mandate is thereby met.

19. Paragraph 3 of article 35 of the Rules provides that corporate claims "must be supported by documentary and other appropriate evidence sufficient to demonstrate the circumstances and amount of the claimed loss". The Panel found that a number of claims, or portions thereof, were defective in this respect. 8/ In some instances, the claimants filed a summary description of the losses alleged, but failed to submit the underlying documents supporting the circumstances or the amount of such losses.

9/ Although some claimants submitted documentation, they did not organize their submission in an understandable fashion or did not supply explanations sufficient to allow the Panel to link the evidence to the particular elements of damage alleged. Where the lack of supporting evidence or explanation was only partial, the Panel has made deductions to any recommended awards to reflect these deficiencies. Where the lack of supporting evidence was so extensive or the presentation of the claim was so unclear as to prevent the Panel from understanding the circumstances of the losses claimed or from ascertaining whether the losses are compensable, the Panel recommended that no compensation be awarded for the claim, or the relevant portions thereof.

III. LEGAL FRAMEWORK

20. The vast majority of the legal issues raised by the claims in the present instalment have been addressed in previous reports by this or other panels and this Panel is guided by the findings in these reports. Before reviewing the claims, the Panel recalls the principles generally applicable.

21. Security Council resolution 687 (1991), paragraph 16, establishes Iraq's liability for losses arising from its invasion and occupation of Kuwait:

“[The Security Council] reaffirms that Iraq, without prejudice to the debts and obligations of Iraq arising prior to 2 August 1990, which will be addressed through the normal mechanisms, is liable under international law for any direct loss, damage, including environmental damage and the depletion of natural resources, or injury to foreign Governments, nationals and corporations, as a result of Iraq's unlawful invasion and occupation of Kuwait.”

22. The clause in paragraph 16 of resolution 687 (1991) relating to “the debts and obligations of Iraq arising prior to 2 August 1990” (the “arising prior to” clause) has been interpreted by this Panel in its first report. The Panel concluded, with reference to the construction and supply claims before it, that when the performance giving rise to the debt had been rendered by a claimant more than three months before Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait, that is, prior to 2 May 1990, a claim based on payment owed for such performance is to be considered as a debt or obligation arising prior to Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait and is therefore outside the jurisdiction of the Commission. 10/ The interpretation of this requirement as it relates to the claims and types of losses in this instalment is addressed in paragraphs 35 to 41 below.

23. Security Council resolution 687 (1991) requires that the causal link between Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait and the loss be “direct”. Paragraph 21 of Governing Council decision 7 establishes the seminal rule as to what constitutes a “direct loss” for category “E” claims:

“These payments are available with respect to any direct loss, damage or injury to corporations and other entities as a result of Iraq's unlawful invasion and occupation of Kuwait. This will include any loss suffered as a result of:

“(a) Military operations or threat of military action by either side during the period 2 August 1990 to 2 March 1991;

“(b) Departure of persons from or their inability to leave Iraq or Kuwait (or a decision not to return) during that period;

“(c) Actions by officials, employees or agents of the Government of Iraq or its controlled entities during that period in connection with the invasion or occupation;

“(d) The breakdown of civil order in Kuwait or Iraq during that period; or

“(e) Hostage-taking or other illegal detention.”

Paragraph 21 is not exclusive and leaves open the possibility that there may be causes of “direct loss” other than those enumerated. Compensation will not, however, be provided for losses suffered as a result of the trade embargo and related measures except to “the extent that Iraq’s unlawful invasion and occupation of Kuwait constituted a cause of direct loss ... which is separate and distinct from the trade embargo and related measures”. 11/ The application of this requirement to the claims and types of losses in this instalment is explained below.

IV. REVIEW OF CLAIMS

24. In this section, the Panel proceeds by loss type to examine both the claims under review and specific issues raised by the claims. For each type of loss, the fact patterns of the claims are described briefly under the heading “Claims description”, followed by a discussion of the specific legal principles applicable to the claims under the heading “Compensability”. In its analysis of the claims, the Panel is guided by its previous findings and by the findings of other panels. The Panel’s recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth in annex II.

A. Provision of goods and services for which payment was not received

1. Contracts involving Kuwaiti parties

(a) Claims description

25. A number of claimants seek compensation for amounts due under contracts with Kuwaiti parties for services provided or goods supplied prior to Iraq’s invasion of Kuwait. The subject matter of those contracts included consulting, loss adjusting and quantity surveying, the design and installation of technical systems and the supply and maintenance of equipment. One of the claimants also seeks compensation for the cost of efforts to collect unpaid debts owed by Kuwaiti parties. In all but one case, the claimants had submitted invoices or other documents prior to 2 August 1990 requesting payment from the Kuwaiti party. The payment terms usually involved a cash payment that was due within one to three months from the invoice date.

26. Claimants cite a variety of reasons for the ensuing non-payment. Some assert that the Kuwaiti party ceased operating during Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait and did not resume business or could not be traced after the liberation of that country. Others state that the Kuwaiti party declined to make payments because the goods that had been supplied had been lost or damaged during Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. One claimant states that it was unable to collect debts owed by Kuwaiti parties because its records on uncollected charges were lost or rendered unusable when its own Kuwaiti headquarters and the office of its shipping agent were occupied and looted by Iraqi troops.

(b) Compensability

27. In its first report, the Panel determined that claimants seeking compensation for the non-payment of amounts owed by Kuwaiti parties must “provide specific proof that the failure to perform was the direct result of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait”. <sup>12/</sup> The Panel has observed that the failure of a Kuwaiti party to pay amounts owed “should not, for example, stem from a debtor’s economic decision to use its available resources to ends other than discharging its contractual obligation, for such an independent decision would be the direct cause of the non-payment” rather than Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. <sup>13/</sup> With respect to the claim involving the seizure and destruction of claimant’s records, the Panel further finds that, where a claimant has satisfactorily demonstrated that moneys owing to it remain unpaid because the business records necessary for collection efforts were destroyed by Iraqi forces, the Panel may consider Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait to be a direct cause of the loss. 14/

28. In the claim where the claimant was entitled to submit invoices prior to 2 August 1990 requesting payment for work performed under an interrupted contract, but did not do so, the Panel considers that, under the circumstances presented, the Kuwaiti party's non-payment was not a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

29. With respect to the claims for additional costs incurred to collect unpaid amounts due from a Kuwaiti debtor, the Panel finds that such claims are compensable in principle where the associated debt was unpaid as a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. Such costs are compensable to the extent that they would reasonably have been expected to occur as a result of the non-payment for the goods or services and are reasonable in amount so that they constitute appropriate efforts to mitigate the claimant's loss. 15/ Included in this group is a claim seeking compensation for the payroll costs of the claimants' regular employees for the time spent in efforts to collect unpaid debts owed by Kuwaiti parties. In determining the compensable portion of such costs, the Panel has considered factors such as the amount of time spent on collection efforts by the claimant's employees, the nature of such efforts, the relative size of the claimant company and the job position of the employees in undertaking the efforts.

30. The Panel applies the above findings to those claims for amounts due but unpaid by Kuwaiti parties for services and goods provided. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

2. Contracts involving Iraqi parties

(a) Claims description

31. A number of claimants seek compensation for unpaid sums due under contracts with Iraqi parties for the supply of goods or services. Some contracts involved specific tasks or particular undertakings, such as the repair of a particular piece of machinery. Others called for recurrent services, such as the conduct of monthly inspections. Still others involved the provision of services on an "as needed basis". The amount charged was normally either a fixed amount or a variable fee dependent upon the nature of the work. The terms of payment also varied with payment due by the Iraqi party, for example, 30 days after the receipt of an invoice or several months following completion of the transaction and, in one claim, over a year after the goods and services were provided.

32. In a number of instances, the transactions with Iraqi customers were to be paid by irrevocable letters of credit issued by an Iraqi bank, which the Iraqi bank did not honour after 2 August 1990. In one claim, the Iraqi customer had paid fees owed for the claimant's services under a revolving letter of credit since 1989. After 6 August 1990, the New York paying bank handling the letter of credit was unable to pay to the claimant the outstanding amounts due under the letter of credit because of the imposition of a national freezing order issued by its Government. 16/ The claimant states that it applied for a licence to enable the bank to continue to pay to the claimant the amounts due under the letter of credit but the licence was not granted by the relevant national authority. Between August 1990 and 16 January 1991, the date on which Allied Coalition military action commenced, the Iraqi party made several payments to the claimant using payment methods other than the letter of credit. Following the Allied Coalition military action, no further payments were received, and the amounts due to the claimant for services performed remain unpaid.

33. Typically, the claimants seek to recover the original contract price of the services or goods. Some claimants also seek additional costs associated with the non-payment, such as the costs in attempting to collect the unpaid sums.

(b) Compensability

34. In its previous reports, the Panel has considered the application of the “arising prior to” clause and the directness requirement contained in Security Council resolution 687 (1991) to claims involving non-payment for goods delivered or services provided to Iraqi parties. The Panel’s findings are summarized below and have been applied to the claims under review.

(i) The jurisdiction of the Commission under the “arising prior to” clause

35. In interpreting the “arising prior to” clause, the Panel has found that this clause was intended to exclude Iraq’s “old debt” from the Commission’s jurisdiction and that, before the rise of Iraq’s foreign debt in the 1980s, three months was the outer limit of standard payment practice in Iraq for construction and supply of goods claims. 17/ Accordingly, in defining the Commission’s jurisdiction, the Panel determined that the debt of Iraq, which had accumulated during the war between Iran and Iraq, was excluded from the Commission’s jurisdiction, as well as subsequent debts of Iraq which had resulted from performance rendered by claimants more than three months prior to 2 August 1990, that is, prior to 2 May 1990. 18/

36. With respect to debts of an Iraqi party for the supply of goods, the Panel recalls the conclusion in its first report, as well as the “E2A” Panel’s conclusion, that for purposes of the “arising prior to” clause, the claimant’s performance is defined by the shipment of the goods and that a claim for non-payment based on a sales contract with an Iraqi party is outside the Commission’s jurisdiction if the shipment of the goods took place prior to 2 May 1990. 19/

37. The Panel also notes the conclusion of the “E2A” Panel that, where the sale of goods to an Iraqi party was to be paid by a letter of credit that has not been honoured by an Iraqi bank, the exporter may base a claim either upon the letter of credit or upon the underlying sales contract. 20/ The “E2A” Panel determined that, for the exporter’s claim to be within the Commission’s jurisdiction, the claimant must have presented to the bank documents in conformity with the requirements of the letter of credit on or after 2 May 1990, provided that the exporter’s shipment of the goods was made within 21 days of the presentation of documents, i.e., on or after 11 April 1990. 21/

38. With respect to claims based on payments owed by an Iraqi party for the provision of services, the Panel recalls the conclusion in its first report that, as a general rule, for the purposes of the “arising prior to” clause, such claims are outside the Commission’s jurisdiction where the performance giving rise to the debt had been rendered by the claimant prior to 2 May 1990. 22/

39. In many instances, the contract period extended beyond 2 August 1990. In respect of claims involving the performance of a number of separate undertakings, the Panel recalls that in its first report it concluded that, where performance was still ongoing as at 2 August 1990, the “arising prior to” clause would apply “to those portions of performance that are separately identifiable in so far as the parties agreed in the contract that a particular payment would be made for a particular portion of the overall work called for under the contract”. 23/ In respect of claims involving the performance of a single undertaking, the “E1” Panel, in the context of a contract with an Iraqi party to provide services and equipment over a period from March 1990 through July 1990, concluded that as the claimant undertook a single contractual obligation “with no provision for payment for anything less than delivery of the complete package”, its performance for the purposes of the “arising prior to” rule was not complete until the final delivery was made. 24/

40. In determining when performance had been rendered for purposes of the “arising prior to” clause, the Panel notes the finding in its first report that the date on which the work was performed must be established. 25/ In the present context of claims for unpaid services, some claimants submitted dated invoices showing the amounts due from Iraqi parties, but did not provide evidence that directly demonstrated the date when the claimants fulfilled the obligations that entitled them to request payment. In such cases, for purposes of the “arising prior to” clause, the Panel has ascertained the date on which the work was performed on a case-by-case basis, considering, where possible, such factors as the date of the invoice, the claimant’s billing history with the Iraqi party and industry practice.

41. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review.

(ii) Application of the directness requirement

42. For a claim within the Commission’s jurisdiction to be compensable, the Panel must find that the loss in question was a direct result of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. The Panel notes the findings by the “E2A” Panel with respect to the factual circumstances relating to the causes of the non-performance of contractual obligations of Iraqi purchasers and Iraqi banks in respect of goods or services provided before the invasion. The “E2A” Panel concluded that the actions of Iraq’s officials during the invasion and occupation of Kuwait, the military operations by Iraq and by the Allied Coalition Forces to liberate Kuwait and the ensuing breakdown of civil order in Iraq, directly caused such losses within the meaning of paragraph 21 of Governing Council decision 7. 26/ The Panel adopts these findings and applies them to claims for amounts due but unpaid by Iraqi purchasers and Iraqi banks for goods and services provided. 27/

43. In respect of the claim in which the non-payment of amounts owed by an Iraqi party did not become due until after 2 March 1991, the Panel notes that the “E2A” Panel has considered the compensability of such losses in connection with claims brought by manufacturers and suppliers. The “E2A” Panel recognized that the effects of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait did not necessarily end immediately after the cessation of hostilities on 2 March 1991 but continued for some period as a direct cause of Iraq's non-payment of its obligations, parallel to the trade embargo. 28/ The "E2A" Panel concluded that, where a payment fell due between 2 March 1991 and 2 August 1991 but was not made by an Iraqi debtor, the ensuing loss might still constitute a direct loss resulting from Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait and could, thus, be compensable. 29/ However, the "E2A" Panel considered that the direct effects of the invasion and occupation would have abated after 2 August 1991, and therefore where payment became due only after 2 August 1991, such non-payment could no longer be deemed to have been directly caused by Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. 30/

44. In respect of additional costs associated with non-payment of amounts due from an Iraqi debtor, such as collection efforts, the Panel finds that the basic principles applicable to Kuwaiti contracts, which are set forth in paragraph 29 above, are also applicable to these claims to recover Iraqi debts.

45. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review.

(iii) Trade embargo

46. In one claim, goods were shipped by the claimant to Iraq after the date on which the trade embargo went into effect. The Panel recalls its earlier finding that a claim based on a shipment of goods that was made after 6 August 1990 in violation of the terms of the trade embargo is not compensable before this Commission. 31/

47. In regard to the claim where a national freezing order prevented payment under a letter of credit issued by an Iraqi bank, the Panel recalls the findings of the "E2A" Panel that, apart from the trade embargo and its related measures, Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait directly caused Iraq's failure to pay its debts after 2 August 1990. 32/ Governing Council decision 9, paragraph 6, provides that "[c]ompensation will be provided to the extent that Iraq's unlawful invasion and occupation of Kuwait constituted a cause of direct loss ... which is separate and distinct from the trade embargo and related measures". With respect to the claim before it, the Panel finds that, although the Iraqi party's attempt to pay the claimant pursuant to the letter of credit was unsuccessful because of the particular freezing order in question, the Iraqi party was able to pay certain amounts owing under its contract with the claimant through other payment methods until the initiation of the Allied Coalition military action in January 1991. Accordingly, the Panel concludes that the freezing order in question was not the sole cause of the loss, but rather simply a barrier to one avenue of payment and that Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait constituted a direct cause of the loss, separate and distinct from the trade embargo and related measures. These losses are consequently compensable in principle. 33/

48. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the particular loss asserted is a direct one and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

B. Interrupted contracts

1. Applicable principles

49. The Panel has found that certain basic principles, set forth in prior reports, apply to interrupted contracts performed in Iraq, Kuwait, Saudi Arabia and elsewhere. The Panel's findings are summarized below.

50. Paragraphs 9 and 10 of Governing Council decision 9 provide that Iraq is liable for losses arising from contracts that were interrupted as a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. This liability extends to contracts with Iraqi parties as well as to those to which Iraq was not a party. Consistent with its findings in previous reports, the Panel interprets "direct loss" in this context to mean "only those losses that would, as of the date of the impossibility, reasonably be expected by both parties to the contract to occur given the nature of the work, the terms of the underlying contract and the cause of the impossibility to perform." 34/ This includes liability for costs incurred by the claimant in performing the contract, the loss of future earnings and profits that the claimant expected to earn under the contract, and additional costs incurred as a result of the interruption.

51. Previous panel reports have established that, where a contract was being performed in the compensable area 35/ and its continuation was interrupted, the attending loss is considered to have resulted directly from Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. 36/ On the other hand, where performance of a contract with a non-Iraqi party did not occur within the compensable area, a claim based upon the contract's interruption is compensable only if the claimant has provided specific proof that the interruption was a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. 37/

52. In regard to the normal measure of contract losses, the Panel also recalls the findings of the "E2A" Panel that:

"The standard measure of compensation for each loss that is deemed to be direct should be sufficient to restore the claimant to the same financial position that it would have been in if the contract had been performed. The claimant should not be placed in a better position than it would have been in, had the contract been performed." 38/

53. Compensation for interrupted contracts must take into account the provisions of Governing Council decisions 9 and 15 that require claimants to mitigate their losses. 39/ The "E2A" Panel, in the context of interrupted supply contracts, has interpreted the duty to mitigate as generally requiring that "the claimant sell the undelivered goods to a third party in a reasonable time and in a reasonable manner". 40/ In addition, the "E2A" Panel observed that "in discharging its duty to mitigate, the claimant must take reasonable steps to preserve the goods or commodities, in conditions appropriate to their nature, pending re-sale to a third party or resumption of performance of the original sales contract". 41/ The "E2A" Panel has also noted that "the duty to mitigate does not require that the resale efforts of the claimant be successful. Rather, it requires that the seller make reasonable efforts to reduce its loss". 42/

54. This Panel finds that these mitigation principles established by the “E2A” Panel with reference to the sale of goods likewise apply to losses arising from interrupted services contracts. For claims based on services contracts, these principles require that the claimant demonstrate that it made reasonable attempts to reallocate its resources in order to mitigate its loss. In this context, mitigation efforts would include, for example, securing replacement contracts, locating substitute customers, redeploying resources and terminating contracts of personnel. Where a claimant has not discharged this duty, any award of compensation is reduced commensurately. 43/

55. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review.

2. Contracts involving Kuwaiti parties

(a) Claims description

56. Numerous claims under review allege the interruption of contracts entered into with Kuwaiti parties for the provision of goods or services to Kuwait. Most were services contracts which related to a wide range of fields, including management and consulting, engineering and architecture, repair and maintenance of equipment and systems, soil surveying, topographic mapping, and air, sea and road transport of freight and passengers, including in one case revenue-sharing agreements between two airlines. In some cases, the claimants were paid a certain rate, such as an hourly fee for their services, while in other cases the claimants were paid a fixed fee for the entire contract or for a certain time period, such as a month. In claims involving the design, manufacture or supply of products and systems, the claimants usually were entitled to receive a fixed price for the products and systems they were to manufacture or supply.

57. As an example, two claimants who were engaged in auxiliary transport services at airports in Europe and the Far East, had contracts with Kuwait Airlines to provide ground handling and catering services at those locations. These claimants state that Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait caused a reduction in the number of flights by Kuwait Airlines to these airports, which resulted in a decline in the claimants’ revenues. Another claimant seeks to recover compensation for the profits expected from a charter-party agreement to transport ore from Kuwait to Jordan which, after it was cancelled due to the invasion, was replaced by a less profitable contract. Compensation is also sought by a European claimant for unpaid freight costs payable by Kuwaiti buyers in connection with goods that the claimant had transported to Kuwait between April and July 1990 that were lost prior to receipt by the Kuwaiti parties.

58. In some cases, the contracts involved a particular project that was scheduled to take months or even years to complete. In other cases, the claimants were engaged in service contracts for a definite period of time, ranging from a few months to a number of years, or for an indefinite time period. As alleged by the claimants, the interruption of the contracts occurred at various stages of performance. Some claimants state that the work was completed by 2 August 1990 and that the shipment or installation of the equipment and systems represented the only remaining performance. Others explain that work had not yet begun as of 2 August 1990, or that the necessary staff and materials were still being assembled at the time of Iraq’s invasion. In some cases, the contracts were formally cancelled or suspended; in other cases, the performance simply ceased upon Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

59. Many of the interrupted contracts were not resumed after the liberation of Kuwait. In most such cases, the claimants state that they attempted to resume the interrupted contracts but were unable to do so for a variety of reasons. The reasons alleged by claimants include that the subject matter on which they had been working was destroyed during Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait; that the Kuwaiti party could no longer afford to continue the contract or had to reallocate its resources to other ends; or that the parties were unable to reach an agreement as to the terms upon which the contract would be resumed.

60. The claimants seek compensation for one or more of the following types of losses: (1) "pre-contractual costs" incurred in securing the award of a contract from a Kuwaiti party, such as costs incurred in the preparation of tender documents or in undertaking other preliminary activities for purposes of obtaining a contract award; (2) the contract price for the work actually performed or costs incurred under the contract; (3) additional costs incurred in connection with the interruption of the contract, such as salaries paid to staff who were detained in Iraq or Kuwait or who otherwise could not perform productive work during the period of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait, redundancy and termination payments made to staff based in Kuwait and other parts of the world who had been performing tasks in connection with the interrupted contract, and additional transportation expenses or other costs incurred in winding down the contract; (4) loss of expected profits for the remaining unperformed portion of the contract; (5) costs incurred in attempting to resume the contract or entering into a new contract with the Kuwaiti party following the liberation of Kuwait, such as staff salaries and allowances and transportation and accommodation expenses incurred in the effort to resume the contract; and (6) miscellaneous losses.

(b) Compensability

(i) Pre-contractual costs

61. In one claim under review, a claimant seeks to recover compensation for costs incurred in successfully securing the award of a contract that was later interrupted by Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. The Panel finds that, since the claimant is being awarded compensation for the loss of expected profits under the contract, the claim for pre-contractual costs is subsumed in the loss of profits claim and no compensation is awarded for the pre-contractual costs.

(ii) Work performed under interrupted contracts

62. With regard to claims for work performed under an interrupted contract with a Kuwaiti party that could not be invoiced according to the terms of the contract as of 2 August 1990, the Panel finds that such losses are compensable if they are a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. In determining the compensation to be awarded for such losses, the Panel recalls the findings of the "E2A" Panel that, where performance of a manufacturing contract was discontinued, the appropriate measure of compensation is "normally the actual costs incurred plus the lost profit, proportionate to the degree of fulfilment of the contract that the claimant could reasonably have expected to earn on the contract. These costs include ‘variable costs’ plus reasonable overhead costs, less credit for any proceeds of resale and costs saved.” 44/ The Panel concludes that this measure of compensation is applicable to the claims under review that are based on work completed prior to the interruption of a contract with a Kuwaiti party. 45/

(iii) Additional costs incurred due to the interruption

63. The Panel has previously determined that additional costs incurred as a result of the interruption of a contract can be a direct consequence of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait and may thus be compensable. 46/ Similarly, the “E2A” Panel has concluded in this context that compensation may be awarded for costs that would have been expected to occur as a result of the interruption, given the nature of the particular transaction or the claimant’s business, and that are reasonable in nature, duration and amount. 47/ As noted by the “E2A” Panel, compensable costs would include, for example, transportation and other costs to return the goods or dispatch them to another buyer; storage fees and maintenance costs pending resale; retooling or redesign costs; and other expenses incurred to resell the goods to third parties. 48/

64. With respect to claims for increased staff costs, the Panel recalls the findings in its previous reports that salary payments made to unproductive staff are compensable “to the extent that the lack of productivity was a direct result of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait ... and the employee could not be reassigned to other productive tasks”. 49/ In addition, as noted in prior reports, the Panel finds that contractually or legally required expenses incurred in terminating employment, rather than continuing to incur unproductive staff expenses, are mitigation expenses and, as such, are compensable in principle. 50/

65. In this context, the Panel observes that where the claimant’s staff were located outside a compensable area, 51/ the Panel will require a stronger showing, based on the facts of the claim, that the cost of termination payments or unproductive salaries was caused directly by Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. 52/ Relevant considerations include whether the employee had been specifically appointed to work on the interrupted contract or was otherwise closely connected to it and the opportunities open to the claimant to re-deploy staff to other tasks.

66. The Panel also recalls the finding in its third report that additional payments made to staff as incentives to enable claimants to continue operations in the compensable area during the hostilities are compensable to the extent that they are reasonable in amount. 53/

(iv) Loss of expected profits

67. With regard to claims for lost profits expected on the unperformed portion of a contract, the Panel applies the principle that the claimant may recover an amount sufficient to restore it to the same financial position that it would have been in had the contract been performed. 54/ Compensation may be awarded for the loss of future earnings and profits that the claimant expected to earn under the contract to the extent that they can be ascertained with reasonable certainty, less any cost savings resulting from the interruption of the contract. 55/ Where the claimant has not provided cost saving information, the Panel finds that lost profits should be calculated on the basis of the claimant’s net profit margin for the contract. In determining the claimant's net profit margin, the Panel takes into account factors such as the claimant's financial statements and the relevant industry standards.

68. In view of the claimant's duty to mitigate its losses, the period for which compensation may be awarded is limited to a reasonable period necessary for the claimant to replace the business it lost when its contract was interrupted (the "interrupted-contract recovery period"). In determining the interrupted-contract recovery period for a particular claimant, the Panel is mindful of the factors identified by the "E2A" Panel in determining the extent to which lost profits may be awarded for the unperformed portion of a long-term contract:

"The Panel considers as particularly relevant to such a determination, the time period necessary for the business in question to recover from the effects of Iraq's invasion by, for example, locating another market and reallocating its resources to other business activities. In determining the length of the compensation period, the Panel also regards as relevant the complexity of the contract, its length and its importance in relation to the total business operations of the claimant." 56/

69. Similarly, as applied to the claims in this instalment, which primarily concern contracts for the provision of professional and transport-related services, the Panel considers the following factors, among others, as especially pertinent in determining the length of the interrupted-contract recovery period: the duration of the interrupted contract; the size of the contract and the percentage of the claimant's business it constituted; the extent to which the contract was performed prior to interruption; the nature of the claimant's business; the location of the claimant's business, in particular, whether the claimant operated a branch or office in Kuwait or Iraq; the location of the claimant's customers; the availability of substitute customers; the claimant's ability to reallocate its resources; and the presence of any contract provision permitting early termination of the claimant's services.

70. Concerning claims based on contracts with Kuwaiti parties, the Panel also notes that whether the contracting parties could resume the contract after the lifting of the embargo against Kuwait and whether they have in fact resumed the contract are also relevant considerations in determining the extent to which a claimant has suffered a loss of profits under an interrupted contract. Thus, where a claimant has concluded new contracts with the same party after the liberation of Kuwait, which involve in whole or part the same work that the claimant would have undertaken under the original contract, the claimant will normally not have suffered a loss of profits under the contract. 57/

(v) Resumption costs

71. Where a claimant endeavoured to resume an interrupted contract or to conclude a replacement contract following the liberation of Kuwait, certain costs incurred thereby may be compensable. The Panel refers to its previous determination concerning claims for the cost of re-establishing offices in Kuwait such as the cost of airfare, hotel accommodations for staff and training costs for replacement staff. 58/ The Panel concluded that extraordinary expenses that are reasonable in amount and incurred as a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait are compensable in principle while ordinary expenses that would have been incurred as part of normal business operations are not.

72. A number of claimants seek compensation for the cost of employees' time spent in efforts to resume business in Kuwait. The Panel observes that, while such costs may have been incurred in any event, the time spent on such efforts and away from other activities may also constitute an extraordinary expense to the claimant. The Panel has determined the compensable portion of such costs, if any, on a case-by-case basis, taking into account a variety of factors, among others, the relative size of the claimant company, the amount of time allegedly spent by its employees on resumption efforts, the location where the efforts took place and the job position of the employees involved.

(vi) Miscellaneous losses

73. One claimant seeks compensation for an amount payable pursuant to a clause in a contract that provided for the Kuwaiti contracting party's payment of liquidated damages if the contract was terminated. The claimant did not attempt to prove that it sustained a loss of future profits due to the interruption of the contract. The Panel notes that the Commission's jurisdiction is limited to losses directly resulting from Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait and further recalls the observation of the "E2A" Panel that a panel's role is not to adjudicate contractual disputes between the claimant and other contracting parties. <sup>59/</sup> Accordingly, it is the Panel's finding in this claim that the non-payment of an amount provided for in a liquidated damages clause is not a loss which is a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

74. Another claimant seeks to recover the unpaid freight costs incurred in transporting to Kuwait, goods which were lost or destroyed in transit prior to the delivery to the Kuwaiti buyer. With respect to this claim, the Panel finds that such freight costs are compensable to the extent that the underlying loss of the associated goods was a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. <sup>60/</sup>

75. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

3. Contracts involving Iraqi parties

(a) Claims description

76. Several claimants seek compensation for losses related to contracts for services or the delivery of goods to Iraq that allegedly were interrupted as a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. The contracts primarily involved the provision of professional services, the transport of merchandise and cargo to and from Iraq, and the manufacture and supply of products and facilities. The contracts were for both definite and indefinite time periods.

77. Some claimants state that the manufacture was complete by 2 August 1990, but that they were unable to deliver or install the items. Others state that work had not yet begun under the contracts as of 2 August 1990 or that the goods were only partially manufactured at the time of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

78. The claimants generally seek compensation for the contract price of work performed prior to the interruption of the contract, the profits they expected to earn under the contract or increased costs incurred due to the interruption (such as redundancy or termination payments to staff and additional transportation expenses).

(b) Compensability

79. The Panel finds that claims based on the interruption of contracts with Iraqi parties are subject to the same jurisdictional criteria as those that apply to completed contracts with reference to the application of the “arising prior to” clause set forth in paragraphs 35 to 41 above. The Panel also refers to the principles of compensability for claims based on interrupted contracts, described in paragraphs 49 to 55 and 61 to 75 above, and finds that these principles apply to claims based on the interruption of contracts with Iraqi parties.

80. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

4. Contracts between parties from States other than Iraq or Kuwait

(a) Claims description

81. In a number of claims, it is alleged that Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait disrupted or prevented the continuation of contracts between parties based in Europe or the Far East, which were being performed inside the compensable area. 61/ In other claims, the claimant was performing work under a contract at a location outside the compensable area for customers who were based in a compensable area. These claimants primarily seek compensation for the lost profits they would have earned under the contracts and the additional costs they incurred, such as termination payments made to staff when the contract ceased, as well as salaries paid to staff who could not perform other productive work for the claimant.

82. In one claim, a European claimant had entered into a contract with a second European party to manage motor vehicle racing teams for events in Kuwait and elsewhere in the Middle East, which was cancelled due to hostilities in the region. Compensation is also sought by a Singaporean shipping agent for services that were not paid by a Bangladeshi ship owner after its vessel was seized and detained by Iraqi forces. Another claimant had concluded a contract with a Belgian organization to host a conference in Europe, which was cancelled. A third claimant, based in the United Kingdom and engaged in providing in-flight catering services to airlines at Heathrow Airport, sustained a reduction in revenue under its catering service contracts with various airlines, two of which were based in Saudi Arabia and Bahrain, because of the decline in the frequency of their flights. Other claimants make similar claims based upon the interruption of contracts to provide ground handling services that were being performed by them at various locations for airlines based in Saudi Arabia, Israel and elsewhere.

83. Several claimants are subcontractors who had agreements with main contractors located outside the Middle East to perform services for projects in Iraq or Kuwait that the main contractors had agreed to perform for Iraqi or Kuwait parties. The claimants allege that Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait prevented the completion of the projects. They seek compensation for the unpaid fees payable under the subcontracts for the work they performed, as well as for the lost profits that they had expected to earn during the remainder of the subcontract.

(b) Compensability

84. With respect to the interruption of contracts between parties from States other than Iraq or Kuwait, the Panel applies the principles of compensability for claims based on interrupted contracts, described in paragraphs 49 to 55 and 61 to 75 above. Accordingly, where a contract was being performed in a compensable area during the relevant periods, 62/ the interruption is considered to have resulted directly from Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. Where the interruption is alleged in relation to a contract being performed outside the compensable area, the claimant must make a specific showing that its inability to perform or the buyer's cancellation was directly caused by Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. Such a showing was made, for example, where a claimant, who was providing transport-related services under contract to airlines based within the compensable area, demonstrated that its revenue declined due to a reduction or suspension of scheduled flights by such airlines. No such showing was made in connection with the shipping agent's claim for unpaid services previously provided to a vessel seized by Iraqi forces. The evidence before the Panel showed that the owner had received payment from related charter parties and he had a longstanding history of non-payment to the claimant; accordingly, the non-payment of the debt was due to reasons other than Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

85. With regard to the claims by subcontractors or suppliers described in paragraph 83 above, the Panel, applying previous determinations made by this and the "E2A" Panel, finds that, where a supplier or a subcontractor's loss is determined to have been a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait, such a loss is compensable provided that the circumstances of the claim do not indicate that the main contractor has received payment from the party with whom it contracted with respect to the subcontractor's work that is the subject of the claim. 63/ In particular, where payment arrangements under the main contract called for advance payments or progress payments, which would have covered amounts due from the main contractor to the subcontractor, the Panel has undertaken such inquiries as were practicable under the circumstances to ensure that only the direct loss has been recommended for compensation. 64/

86. The Panel adopts the above findings and applies them to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth at annex II.

C. Continued performance of contracts

1. Claims description

87. A number of claimants allege that as a result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait, they incurred increased costs or lost revenue in continuing to perform contracts in the Middle East.

88. Most claims in this group are based on the alleged increased costs of performing contracts to provide a specified number of workers to perform maintenance and operational services at facilities in Saudi Arabia. Another claimant alleges that it incurred additional costs in continuing to perform a contract to provide medical services in Iraq. The increased costs sought by the claimants include hazard allowances paid to staff, overtime payments, staff recruitment costs, travel and accommodation expenses, additional office space and contractual penalties for deficient performance. These costs were allegedly incurred to retain the existing workforce or to obtain substitute workers or equipment required for the performance of the contracts or for the failure to do so.

89. Another claimant had a charter-party agreement with a Saudi Arabian company to deliver a vessel to the chartering party at a port on the Red Sea. The claimant states that, due to delays in the repair of its vessel at the Jeddah shipyards, it had to find a more costly substitute vessel to fulfil the contract.

90. In addition, some claimants allege that they suffered a loss of revenue in the continued performance of contracts to provide catering, cargo handling and custodial services at airports in Europe, the Far East, throughout Saudi Arabia and elsewhere in the Middle East. These claimants seek compensation for the lost profits under these contracts that resulted from a reduction in the number of personnel which the claimants had available to perform services in Saudi Arabia or a reduction in the level of services required by customers elsewhere.

2. Compensability

91. The Panel finds that increased costs or loss of revenue incurred in the continued performance of contracts are compensable in principle insofar as these were sustained in a compensable area during the relevant periods. <sup>65/</sup> Where the contract was being performed outside the compensable area, the claimant must make a specific showing that its additional costs of performance or loss of revenue was directly caused by Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

92. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. The Panel's recommendations with respect to these claims are set forth in annex II.

D. Decline in business or interrupted course of dealing

93. Many claimants seek compensation for a loss of revenue suffered as a result of a decline in business or an interrupted course of dealing during the period of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait and, in some cases, for a period thereafter. These claims are not based on the interruption of specific contracts, but rather on the suspension or reduction of the claimant's general business operations. A number of claimants, whose staff were detained in Iraq or Kuwait, also seek to recover compensation for the loss of the services of their employees, including the profits they would have allegedly earned from their services during the period of detention.

1. Applicable principles

94. This Panel concluded in previous reports that a general reduction in the revenue of an ongoing business, which suffered a decline in operations but no physical destruction or temporary closure, may constitute a loss eligible for compensation. 66/ Similarly, a claim based on the interruption of a transaction that has been part of a business practice or course of dealing may constitute a loss eligible for compensation. 67/ Supplementing these basic principles, the Panel turns to the questions of (1) the "directness requirement" and the definition of the compensable area and the primary compensation period; (2) business recovery and the secondary compensation period; and (3) presence in the compensable area.

(a) The directness requirement and the definition of the compensable area and the primary compensation period

95. The Panel's analysis of the compensability of the claims under review begins with the requirement in Security Council resolution 687 (1991) that there be a direct loss resulting from Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. Where losses are sustained in Iraq or Kuwait, the directness requirement will generally be met by the claimant showing that the loss resulted from one of the five enumerated categories of events and circumstances listed in paragraph 21 of Governing Council decision 7. In the case of losses suffered outside Iraq and Kuwait by claimants in the present instalment, the Panel finds that the facts underlying the claims can only relate to paragraph 21(a) of decision 7, which provides that loss or damage resulting from "military operations or threat of military action by either side during 2 August 1990 to 2 March 1991" is directly caused by Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. 68/

96. In its second and third reports, this Panel considered the geographical area and the time period within which decline in business and course of dealing losses may be considered to have been directly caused by military operations or threat of military action within the meaning of paragraph 21(a) of decision 7. 69/ In its third report, the Panel delineated the locations that were subject to military operations and the threat of military action for the purposes of subparagraph 21(a) of decision 7, as well as the time periods during which they were so affected (collectively referred to as "the compensable locations" or "the compensable area"). The findings in these reports which are relevant to the claims in this instalment are summarized below:

Table 3. Compensable area

Area	Period
Iraq	2 August 1990 - 2 March 1991
Kuwait a/	2 August 1990 - 2 March 1991
Saudi Arabia (within the range of Iraq's scud missiles)	2 August 1990 - 2 March 1991
Persian Gulf north of the 27 th parallel	2 August 1990 – 2 March 1991
Israel	15 January – 2 March 1991
Bahrain	22 February – 2 March 1991

a/ In respect of claims for losses resulting from cancelled air operations into Kuwait, the compensable period is 2 August 1990 to 22 April 1991.

97. Even where a loss has been allegedly sustained in a compensable area, the Panel, with respect to the claims before it, undertakes an inquiry to determine whether the particular loss asserted is a direct one and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above.

(b) Business recovery and secondary compensation period

98. In its second report, the Panel found that, in some instances, the full resumption of a claimant's business operations was not likely to have taken place immediately upon the cessation of military operations, and consequently compensation could be awarded for a recovery period extending beyond 2 March 1991 (the "secondary compensation period"). 70/ The Panel further found that the guiding principle to be followed in determining the secondary compensation period is that "losses are compensable until the point where the claimant's business could reasonably have been expected to return to normal levels" and that the duration of the appropriate compensation period should be decided on a case-by-case basis. 71/ The Panel adopts these findings and applies them to the claims for decline in business and course of dealing losses in this instalment.

99. In particular, the Panel notes the application of the secondary compensation period to one claim based on the interruption of auxiliary services being provided by the claimant to Kuwait Airways in locations outside Kuwait. The claimant alleges a loss of revenue from its dealings with Kuwait Airways from August 1990 through July 1991. Given the fact that Kuwait Airways had sustained extraordinary damage as a result of the hostilities, the Panel concludes that the business dealings between the claimant and Kuwait Airways could not reasonably have been expected to return to normal levels until at least several months after March 1991. 72/

(c) Presence in the compensable area

100. Previous panel reports have established that where a claimant was not based within the compensable area but maintained a presence within that area by way of a branch, agency or other establishment, losses from a decline in business related to such a presence are compensable “for profits which, in the ordinary course of events, [the claimant] would have been expected to earn and which were lost as a result of a decline in business directly caused by Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait”. 73/ Any such losses are considered to have resulted directly from Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. 74/

101. In the case of claimants without a presence in the compensable area which seek to recover for decline in business or course of dealing losses, the Panel found in its previous reports that such claims are to be evaluated under the requirements of paragraph 11 of Governing Council decision 9 (“paragraph 11”) which states:

“Where a loss has been suffered relating to a transaction that has been part of a business practice or course of dealing, Iraq is liable according to the principles that apply to contract losses. No liability exists for losses related to transactions that were only expected to take place based on a previous course of dealing.”

102. The Panel has further determined that a claimant without a presence in the compensable area must satisfy a high standard before it is entitled to compensation for decline in business or course of dealing losses. In particular, such losses are compensable under paragraph 11 where:

“the claimant shows that there was a regular course of dealing with another party, demonstrating that the claimant had a well-founded expectation of further business dealings of the same character with the same party under readily ascertainable terms and, in addition, that a consistent level of income and profitability had been realized from such dealings. A mere showing of past earnings from operations to locations in the compensable area will be insufficient to establish a course of dealings giving rise to compensable losses.” 75/

103. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review for decline in business or course of dealing losses. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to these claims are set forth in annex II.

2. Claimants with a presence in the compensable area

(a) Claims description

104. The majority of the claimants in this instalment were based in or carried on operations from offices, branches or other establishments in Iraq, Kuwait, or Saudi Arabia. Virtually all of these claimants were in the business of providing professional services or auxiliary transport services and they are representative of many business sectors. The claimants, for example, were engaged in the provision of services, such as accounting and loss adjusting, surveying, construction and engineering, and include an educational facility in Kuwait and health care facilities in Iraq. One of these claimants was a non-profit school in Kuwait that was occupied by Iraqi forces and remained closed for the 1990-1991 academic year. After re-opening, it experienced reduced enrolment and the loss of tuition fees for a number of semesters. The auxiliary transport claims concern the distribution of fuel and the maintenance of various types of transport equipment, as well as cargo services. These claimants allege that they sustained a loss of revenue or profits due to the temporary closure or disruption of their business operations or due to the temporary detention of their employees.

105. In another claim, a Bangladeshi claimant seeks compensation for its cargo vessel that, while in Kuwaiti waters and under attachment by the Kuwaiti authorities, was seized, occupied and severely damaged by Iraqi forces. In 1992, the vessel was scuttled by the Kuwait Port Authority as it was creating a hazardous condition in the Kuwait harbour and consequently suffered further damages. The vessel was later recovered by the claimant and sold for salvage. The claimant seeks compensation for lost profits based on the revenues that its vessel would have generated by way of charter-party agreements, had it not been seized and damaged during Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. In addition, the claimant seeks the future revenues that it expected to earn from its investment in a second vessel, which it would have allegedly acquired from the profits generated from the cargo vessel had it not been damaged.

106. A shipping company based in Kuwait alleges a loss of profits as a result of the attempted seizure and detention of its vessel in the Port of Kuwait by Iraqi authorities from 2 August 1990 until the ship was able to escape from the Iraqi-controlled territory.

(b) Compensability

107. Consistent with its previous findings, the Panel concludes that if a claimant establishes that it was based in the compensable area or maintained a presence there, as described in paragraph 100, during the relevant time period, a direct causal link will generally be found to exist between the alleged decline in business and Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. Under such circumstances, the claimant is entitled to compensation "for the profits which, in the ordinary course of events [the claimant] would have been expected to earn and which were lost as a result of a decline in business directly caused by Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait." 76/

108. With respect to the claim of the non-profit school operating in Kuwait, the Panel notes that this claim is for lost income, not lost profit, sustained during the period that the school was closed or had reduced enrolment. The "E4" Panel in its third report concluded that non-profit organizations may be compensated for loss of revenue in the same manner that a for-profit organization is compensated for loss of profits. 77/ The Panel adopts this finding and applies it to the claim under review.

109. With respect to the claims for the loss of profits that claimants would have earned from the services of detained employees, the Panel finds that such losses resulted directly from Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait and are compensable in principle. The Panel undertakes a further inquiry to determine the extent to which the claimant demonstrated it suffered an actual loss of profits due to the detention of an employee. The Panel has made these determinations with respect to these claims on a case-by-case basis, taking into account such factors as the period of detention, the seniority of the detained employees and the size of the claimant's workforce.

110. With respect to the claims for lost profits of the vessels seized and detained in Kuwait during the hostilities, the Panel finds that the appropriate measure of compensation is the profits that the claimants would have earned for the period of time reasonably required to render the vessels operational. With regard to the lost revenues that the Bangladeshi claimant alleges it would have derived from an investment in a second vessel, the Panel finds that the loss is speculative and too remote to be considered as a direct consequence of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

111. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth at annex II.

3. Claimants without a presence in the compensable area

(a) Claims description

112. Most of the claimants who did not maintain an office or other establishment in Iraq, Kuwait or Saudi Arabia operated in or provided services to the airline, shipping and railway industries. Some were engaged in scheduled operations to or from these locations. Others conducted operations elsewhere in the Middle East or in Europe, but provided services to customers from Iraq, Kuwait and Saudi Arabia. Still others had no scheduled operations to these areas; nor did they provide services to customers from these areas.

113. An example of these claims is a claim by an airline based in the Philippines. The claimant alleges that its scheduled flights to Europe, Saudi Arabia and other destinations were cancelled as a result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. It also seeks lost profits due to a reduction in catering services that it was providing, at an airport in the Philippines, to airlines from Kuwait, Saudi Arabia, Bahrain and elsewhere.

114. Several shipping companies, many based in Greece, allege that they sustained a loss of profits during the period of the invasion as a result of their inability to undertake or complete voyages originating from or destined to ports throughout the Middle East and the Mediterranean.

115. Another claimant was the sole handling agent at the Dubai International Airport and provided ground services for all airlines operating at the airport. It was also the general ticket sales agent for a number of airlines that operated regularly scheduled flights to and from destinations throughout the Middle East, South-East Asia, Africa and elsewhere. The claimant seeks to recover the lost revenues it sustained due to a reduction in the number of flights by these various airlines to and from the airport in Dubai.

116. Another claimant was a shipping agent at Italian ports who was appointed the sole general agent for several Kuwaiti shipping lines and was responsible for the provision of all supplies and services while the vessels were in port. These Kuwaiti shipping lines had made frequent voyages to the Italian ports for a number of years prior to Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. The claimant seeks the lost profits it suffered due to a reduction in the number of voyages made by the Kuwaiti shipping lines.

117. The Egyptian postal authority seeks compensation for a decline in its revenues allegedly due to Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. One source of revenue had been derived from the claimant's international mail and parcel exchanges with the Iraqi Department of Postal Affairs. In this regard, the claimant states that the handling of international mail exchanges was regulated by the Universal Postal Convention, which sets out the basic obligations for handling international mail and the tariffs and charges applicable to such services. The claimant maintains, inter alia, that the arrangements between the claimant and the Iraqi authorities were well established and generated regular exchanges from which the claimant consistently received revenue.

118. One claimant operated the Jordanian port at Aqaba, on the Red Sea, and another claimant operated Turkish ports on the Mediterranean Sea. These claimants provided a full range of port services, including piloting and docking of vessels and the handling and storage of cargo. The claimants received ships from throughout the world, which unloaded or loaded cargo at the claimants' ports that was destined for or originated from domestic and international markets, including markets in Iraq as well as in Kuwait and Saudi Arabia. Both claimants seek compensation for lost revenue resulting from a decrease in the number of vessels and the volume of cargo passing through their ports.

119. Three railway companies located, respectively, in Jordan, Egypt and Turkey, seek compensation for a decline in the volume of passengers and cargo transported during the period of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait and for some time thereafter. The Jordanian and Egyptian claimants do not assert that they had regular operations into Iraq, Kuwait or Saudi Arabia or that they had ongoing business dealings with parties in those locations. The Turkish claimant does state that in past years it had transported goods that were ultimately destined for Iraqi markets although not specifying particular shippers or receivers with whom it regularly conducted business. This claimant further states that the reason for the decline in the volume of passengers and cargo it transported domestically was a shortage of available locomotives and railcars because its equipment was allocated for potential use in the assistance of the Allied Coalition Forces.

(b) Compensability

120. As the claimants whose claims are described in this subsection were based outside the compensable area and did not maintain a presence there, the Panel has evaluated each claim under the standards of paragraph 11 of Governing Council decision 9. 78/ As stated above, to establish that there was a "well-founded expectation of further business dealings of the same character with the same party under ascertainable terms", a claimant must show that there were particular circumstances that created this expectation. Such circumstances could consist of, for example, a well-established arrangement that contemplated further dealings of the same character with the same parties in the compensable area. 79/

121. With respect to the claim by the airline based in the Philippines for loss of profits resulting from reduced operations to or from Middle East destinations, the Panel recalls the conclusion in its third report that airlines and shipping lines that do not have a presence in the compensable area, but which conducted regularly scheduled operations to or from the compensable area, may satisfy the requirements of paragraph 11 of decision 9. 80/ The Panel finds that the Philippine airline claimant has established that, in the past, it had operated regularly scheduled flights to compensable locations in the Middle East, including eastern Saudi Arabia, and that in consequence of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait, the number of flights declined. Accordingly, the Panel concludes that the claimant's losses attributable to the reduction in flights to and from the compensable area are, in principle, compensable.

122. In respect of the claims of the handling agent at the Dubai International Airport and the shipping agent in Italy, the Panel notes that each claimant acted as an agent for identifiable transport companies for the purpose of providing services to these companies on their scheduled routes between destinations in the compensable area and the claimants' respective offices in Dubai or Italy. Similarly, the Philippine airline claimant has shown that it had regularly provided catering services at the Manila Airport to specific foreign airlines for scheduled flights to and from locations in the Middle East (including Kuwait and Saudi Arabia) and that the flights which it serviced were disrupted by Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. Thus, these claimants have established that they had provided services on a regular basis to the same transport companies for a number of years preceding the invasion and that up to August 1990 the transport companies had made regular journeys to the claimants' locations that were interrupted by the invasion and occupation of Kuwait. The Panel therefore finds that these claimants have satisfied the requirements of paragraph 11 and that the claimants' losses sustained from an interrupted course of dealing in respect of such operations to or from the compensable area are, in principle, compensable. 81/

123. With respect to the claim of the Egyptian postal authority, the Panel recalls the conclusion in its previous report that the requirements of paragraph 11 were satisfied by telecommunication claimants who had established a regular course of dealing with Iraq and Kuwait under bilateral agreements that set forth basic obligations. 82/ Similarly, the Panel finds that the Egyptian postal authority has demonstrated that it had a regular long-standing course of dealing in respect of international mail and parcel exchanges with the Iraqi postal department. The claimant has also "demonstrated a well-founded expectation of further business dealings" with Iraq under ascertainable terms which were set out, notably, in the provisions of the Universal Postal Convention and in the quarterly billing statements exchanged between the parties, and that a consistent level of profits had been realized from these dealings. The Panel therefore finds that the claim for lost profits from the exchange of international mail with Iraq is compensable in principle. However, the Panel further finds that the balance of the claimant's loss of profits claim does not satisfy the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above.

124. The claimants operating ports in Jordan and Turkey showed that they regularly handled cargo that passed through their ports en route to and from the compensable area, with a portion of this cargo being imported into Iraq. However, apart from a record of transactions in which the claimants handled goods that were ultimately destined for the compensable area, the claimants did not show there were circumstances that supported a well-founded expectation of further business dealings of the same character with the same party under readily ascertainable terms. Accordingly, the Panel finds that the claims of the two port operators do not meet the standards of paragraph 11 of decision 9.

125. In respect of the three claims by railway companies, the Panel finds that these claimants failed to demonstrate that they conducted regular operations to or from the compensable area or that they had established a course of dealing with any party to transport cargo or passengers destined for or originating from the compensable area that satisfies the standards established in paragraph 11. With regard to the Turkish Railway's claim for lost profits arising from the allocation of transport services to the Allied Coalition Forces, the Panel notes that the "F2" Panel has interpreted Governing Council decision 19 as precluding compensation for costs incurred in connection with "preparation for, participation in, or provision of support in relation to the activities of the Allied Coalition Forces and their military response to Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait". <sup>83/</sup> The Panel concurs with this interpretation and, in the claim under review, concludes that it applies equally to lost revenues sustained in the allocation of commercial equipment to assist the Allied Coalition Forces.

126. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth at annex II.

E. Increased costs

127. Numerous claimants seek compensation for additional costs incurred as a result of the disruption or cessation of their business operations in Iraq, Kuwait or Saudi Arabia or their transactions with parties in these locations. Such increased costs include claims for (1) salaries, incentives and termination payments paid to employees; (2) advance rent payments; (3) legal fees incurred in connection with situations created by the invasion; (4) temporary relocation of business operations; (5) costs in re-establishing business operations after the liberation of Kuwait; and (6) miscellaneous increased costs relating to insurance, fuel and storage of diverted goods.

128. Claims have also been submitted in respect of costs incurred in providing support services and other assistance to employees and their families, such as in connection with the detention and evacuation of personnel or the reimbursement of these individuals for their personal property losses. These claims will be considered below in section F entitled "Payment or relief to others".

1. Salaries, incentives and termination payments

(a) Claims description

129. Many claimants seek compensation for salaries paid to employees who were allegedly rendered unproductive as a result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait, including employees who were held hostage in Iraq and Kuwait, those who were evacuated from the region and those who remained but were unable to work productively.

130. A number of claimants, in addition to claiming for the unproductive salary paid to detained employees, also seek to recover costs incurred in retaining replacement workers until their employees were able to return to work. Others seek to recover the cost of "war bonuses" and other incentives paid to employees in order to encourage them to continue working in the Middle East or for overtime paid to employees to fill positions that had been left vacant by employees who had departed the region following Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. Several claimants also seek compensation for termination payments made to employees who were discharged due to the disruption or cessation of the claimants' business activities caused by Iraq's invasion.

(b) Compensability

131. In paragraphs 64 to 65 above, the Panel recalled the principles applicable to the compensability of unproductive salaries, incentives and termination payments made to employees in connection with interrupted contracts. These principles are equally applicable to claims for such payments made to staff in the course of general business operations that are addressed in the present section.

132. One claimant seeks compensation for both unproductive salary payments made to detained employees and the cost of retaining replacement workers for the detained employees. The Panel notes that an award of compensation made for both costs would result in multiple recovery for the claimant. The Panel finds that, as a general matter, only the amount paid to the detained employee is compensable in principle, unless the cost of the replacement employee is greater, in which case that amount may be compensable.

133. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth at annex II.

2. Advance payment for rent and other services

(a) Claims description

134. Several claimants seek compensation for the loss of the benefit of advance payments made in respect of offices or staff accommodations in Kuwait and Iraq that could not be used because of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. These payments include pre-paid or advance payments for office rent and utilities, insurance coverage and maintenance of office equipment and operating systems that covered a period of time following 2 August 1990 when the claimants were forced to cease their operations in Iraq or Kuwait.

(b) Compensability

135. In its previous reports, the Panel found that pre-paid or advance payments for rent and other services for the period 2 August 1990 to 2 March 1991 in connection with premises in Iraq or Kuwait which the claimant could not occupy are compensable in principle. <sup>84/</sup> As determined in prior reports, advance rental payments in the case of businesses are best considered within a loss of profits claim. <sup>85/</sup> In some cases, however, as in the case with some of the claims presently under review, it is not possible to value a claim for advance rental payments as an element of a loss of profits claim because of the manner in which the claims are presented (for example, where the claimant has not also submitted a claim for loss of profits). The Panel, in such cases, considers that the advance payment created an entitlement to the use of an asset and, to the extent that the claimant's inability to receive the benefit of the amount paid for rent or other services during the relevant period was the direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation, the claims for advance payments are compensable in principle. 86/

136. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review for pre-paid rent and other services. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth at annex II.

3. Legal fees other than claim preparation costs

(a) Claims description

137. A number of claimants seek to recover the cost of legal services that were allegedly obtained in order to address situations resulting from Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. These situations include the assessment of the necessity to maintain, or the possibility to terminate, contracts of detained or unproductive workers in Iraq; and the evaluation of the status of an interrupted contract with a Kuwaiti party and a continuing contract with an Iraqi party. Another claimant incurred legal fees in attempting to secure the release of Iraqi assets that were frozen pursuant to a national freezing order issued in connection with the trade embargo. The question of costs incurred in the collection of unpaid debts owed by Iraqi or Kuwaiti parties is addressed above in, respectively, paragraphs 29 and 44 above.

(b) Compensability

138. The Panel finds that claims for legal fees are compensable in principle if the situation necessitating the engagement of legal services was a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait and to the extent such fees are reasonable in amount and were incurred other than in respect of the preparation of a claim before this Commission. 87/

139. The Panel finds that the cost of legal advice regarding a claimant's rights and obligations in respect of its employees in Iraq, who were detained or unproductive as a result of Iraq's invasion, is a reasonable step taken to mitigate the claimant's losses. Accordingly the Panel finds this claim, in principle, compensable.

140. With regard to the claim for the cost of legal advice on the status of an interrupted contract with a Kuwaiti party, although these legal services were obtained in 1993, they related to a contractual obligation to conduct a soil survey in an area possibly still contaminated by unexploded ordnances. The Panel thus finds that these services were in response to a direct and continuing effect of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait and, as such, constitute a direct loss which is, in principle, compensable.

141. With respect to another claim for the cost of legal advice on the status of a continuing contract with an Iraqi party, the Panel finds that such costs are not compensable as the claimant failed to show that they were incurred other than in the course of its normal business operations.

142. With respect to the legal costs incurred in attempting to secure the release of Iraqi assets frozen pursuant to freezing orders so as to obtain payment of outstanding contract debts owed by Iraqi parties, the Panel finds that under the circumstances presented, these costs were incurred in an effort to mitigate the claimant's loss and are, in principle, compensable.

143. The Panel adopts the above findings and applies them to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth at annex II.

4. Temporary relocation of business operations

(a) Claims description

144. One claimant seeks to recover the cost of relocating its operations from Kuwait to Dubai during the period of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. The claimant states that it took the decision to temporarily transfer its headquarters to Dubai because its main office in Kuwait was occupied and looted by Iraqi forces. The claimant seeks to recover the costs of establishing a substitute office, including transportation, hotel accommodation and residency fees for staff and family members who had travelled to Dubai to resume the business, office rent in Dubai, the depreciation on new office equipment purchased in Dubai, and the cost of reconstructing computer systems and data. The claimant also seeks compensation for the cost of returning staff and office equipment from Dubai to Kuwait in 1992 and 1994 and for the cost of holding additional board meetings necessitated by this extraordinary situation.

(b) Compensability

145. Under the circumstances presented, the Panel finds that the claimant's relocation of its staff and operations to Dubai and its additional board meetings were appropriate and reasonable measures taken by the claimant to mitigate its losses and continue its operations. The Panel further finds that such costs, as well as those incurred for the return of its operations to Kuwait, are compensable to the extent that they represent extraordinary expenses that were incurred as a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. Ordinary expenses incurred as part of the claimant's normal business operations which would have been incurred by the claimant in any event are not compensable. In addition, with respect to the part of the claim relating to office rent in Dubai, the Panel determines that the claim is compensable to the extent that the cost of office space in Dubai was incurred as a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait, rather than due to the claimant's independent business decision to remain in Dubai. With respect to the claim relating to the reconstruction of computer systems and data, the Panel also reviewed the method of calculation of this loss to ensure that any award of compensation would take into consideration any betterment resulting to the system.

146. The Panel applies the above findings to the claim under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth at annex II.

5. Post-liberation start-up costs

(a) Claims description

147. Several claimants seek compensation for the costs incurred in resuming business operations in Kuwait after the country was liberated. The most frequently claimed costs include transportation, hotel accommodation and food costs for staff who had travelled to Kuwait to resume business operations, shipping charges to replace office equipment and furnishings, as well as recruitment expenses for new personnel.

(b) Compensability

148. The Panel recalls the findings in its previous reports that post-liberation start-up costs are compensable if they constitute “extraordinary expenses that were incurred as a direct result of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait” (such as airfares and hotel accommodation for returning staff and costs of setting up temporary workshops following the destruction of business premises), but not costs that represent “ordinary expenses incurred as part of an on-going business enterprise” (such as salary costs for replacement staff). <sup>88/</sup>

149. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth at annex II.

6. Increased fuel costs, increased war risk insurance, additional storage and other costs related to diverted goods

(a) Claims description

150. A number of claimants, particularly from the transport industry, have claimed for increased costs incurred in the course of business operations, which they allege resulted from Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. These involve claims for: (1) increases in the cost of fuel and other petroleum products as a result of a substantial, world-wide increase in the price of crude oil following Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait; (2) additional premiums which underwriters required to maintain war risk coverage in respect to shipping and air transport operations to destinations in the Middle East; and (3) additional costs incurred in transporting and storing goods that could not be delivered to Iraq or Kuwait.

(b) Compensability

151. This Panel previously addressed similar claims for increased fuel costs in the E2(3) report. The Panel found that the general rise in the price of oil following Iraq's invasion of Kuwait was a consequence of market forces. It also noted that in decision 15, the Governing Council stated that these oil price increases are an example of the economic situation caused by the trade embargo, which is not as a basis for compensation. 89/ Consequently, the Panel concluded that "the increase in oil prices was not a direct consequence of the invasion and occupation of Kuwait" and, therefore, that additional costs incurred as a result thereof are not compensable." 90/ The Panel adopts this finding and applies it to the claims in this instalment.

152. With regard to the claims for increased insurance costs, the Panel notes that in the E2(3) report it concluded that the cost of additional war risk insurance premiums was a direct result of the invasion and occupation of Kuwait to the extent that they were incurred in respect of operations within the compensable areas during the compensable periods identified in paragraph 96. 91/ The Panel further notes that in the E2(3) report it also found that, to the extent war risk premiums cover risks other than military operations or the threat thereof, such as terrorist attacks, part of the premium was not incurred as a direct result of Iraq's invasion and therefore is not compensable. 92/

153. With regard to the other increased costs such as the cost of diverting and storing goods which could not be delivered to Iraq or Kuwait, the "E2A" Panel has found these costs to be reasonable steps in mitigation of a claimant's loss and that such costs are compensable, provided they are appropriate in nature and reasonable in duration. 93/

154. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth at annex II.

F. Payment or relief to others

155. A number of claimants allege that, as a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait, they made payments or provided benefits to employees or others. The compensation sought by the claimants is addressed in this section in the following categories: (1) payment or relief to refugees provided by charitable organizations; (2) charitable donations by corporations; (3) payment of detention benefits and support to employees who were detained or were otherwise unable to leave Iraq or Kuwait; (4) costs incurred in evacuating, relocating or repatriating employees; (5) reimbursement of personal property losses to employees; (6) security and protective measures to safeguard employees; and (7) support to employees and their dependants during the period of evacuation.

1. Payment or relief to refugees by charitable organizations

(a) Claims description

156. Several charitable organizations seek compensation for relief assistance that they had provided to persons who fled from Iraq and Kuwait following Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. One claimant is an Indian association, which was established shortly after Iraq's invasion of Kuwait to assist Indian nationals who returned to India. Compensation is sought by this claimant for resettlement services provided to those workers and their families from November 1990 and continuing for a number of years thereafter. Two other claimants are Jordanian charitable organizations which were in existence prior to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait, but which diverted resources from their normal charitable activities to provide emergency relief for refugees of various nationalities who fled to Jordan. The two organizations seek to recover the costs of establishing relief centres in Jordan and providing food, transportation, shelter, and medical assistance to refugees.

(b) Compensability

157. Under Governing Council decision 7, Iraq is liable for the cost of relief provided by corporations or other entities to persons who departed from Iraq or Kuwait during the period 2 August 1990 to 2 March 1991. <sup>94/</sup> A threshold question raised by the claims under review is whether compensation for the cost of relief provided to evacuees and returnees from Iraq and Kuwait should be made available to non-profit organizations, since the mandate of such organizations is to provide charitable assistance.

158. The "F2" Panel has determined that claims by Governments for relief contributions made to evacuees and returnees are considered direct losses to the extent that they are temporary and extraordinary. <sup>95/</sup> The "F1" Panel has determined, in the particular case of governmental claims for contributions to relief organizations, that the directness requirement is satisfied under three conditions: the purpose of the contribution responds to a specific and urgent need that resulted directly from Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait; the contribution was for losses covered by any of the criteria adopted by the Governing Council in decision 7; and the contribution was actually used to respond to such a need. <sup>96/</sup>

159. The Panel finds that the conditions set forth by the "F" Panels with regard to governmental relief contributions are equally applicable to the expenditures made by the charitable organizations in the claims under review. The Panel finds that the costs incurred by the present claimants (1) are of the same nature and purpose as the relief contributions for which the "F1" and "F2" Panels awarded compensation to Governments; (2) were made for losses covered by the Governing Council's criteria for direct losses; and (3) were actually used to respond to such a need. The Panel therefore concludes that the cost of charitable relief to refugees from Iraq and Kuwait incurred by the non-profit organizations in the claims under review is compensable in principle.

160. The Panel further finds that the fact that the Indian claimant was established after the invasion of Kuwait does not preclude an award of compensation. The claimant's decision to organize and establish a relief facility to assist refugees does not break the chain of causation as it was a reasonable and foreseeable response to Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

161. The Panel must also consider the appropriate methodology for the valuation of the losses. With respect to government claims for humanitarian relief, the "F2" Panel recognized the difficulty that exists for a claimant who had provided emergency relief assistance to produce financial records and other evidence to quantify the net costs of such efforts. 97/ In the claims under review, the Panel finds that each claimant provided satisfactory evidence of the costs it had incurred in humanitarian efforts and that it has accounted for donations in cash or in kind which it received for the purposes of its relief efforts. 98/ Accordingly, the measure of compensation for providing relief to evacuees and returnees is the estimate of the total amount spent on such relief less donations and other contributions made for purposes of assisting in these specific relief efforts. Further, the Panel has applied a discount to the amount of the calculated loss to account for the residual value of purchased items (such as tents, water tanks and vehicles) after the relief efforts were finished and for any costs that were not incurred exclusively for purposes of providing compensable relief.

162. Finally, in the case of the Indian claimant, the Panel must also determine whether compensation should be allowed for relief provided to returnees after the liberation of Kuwait. In view of the circumstances of the claim, particularly the time required to facilitate resettlement after 2 March 1991, the Panel has determined a secondary compensation period sufficient to allow the claimant to properly assist the returnees in their resettlement efforts, provided such costs were incurred as a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

163. The Panel applies the above findings to the claims under review for payment or relief to refugees by charitable organizations. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. The Panel's recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth at annex II.

2. Charitable donations by corporations

(a) Claims description

164. One claimant, a business incorporated in Saudi Arabia, seeks compensation for donations of food made to a local chamber of commerce to aid Kuwaiti refugees in Saudi Arabia.

(b) Compensability

165. The Panel notes that, in contrast to the charitable organizations described in paragraph 156 above, whose principal mission is to assist people in need such as refugees, corporate enterprises make charitable donations on the basis of independent business decisions for reasons only incidentally related to the business objectives of the corporation. The Panel has in certain circumstances recommended that compensation be awarded to corporations for relief payments. Such awards were recommended where payments had been made in the context of the claimants' contractual relationship with its employees; 99/ or, as in the case of transport carriers (airlines and railways) where the relief services had been provided by the claimant in a quasi-governmental capacity or as a public service. 100/ In the case under review, however, no such factors are present to indicate that the payments constitute a “direct loss” resulting from Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait within the meaning of Security Council resolution 687 (1991). As the Panel noted in the E2(2) report, the “direct loss” limitation on the Commission’s jurisdiction in resolution 687 (1991) is “understandable in view of the magnitude of liability that would result from providing compensation for any detriment wherever felt, by any person, which somehow can be related to the invasion and occupation of Kuwait”. 101/ Accordingly, the Panel concludes that the donation made by the corporation in the claim under review is not compensable.

3. Detention allowances

(a) Claims description

166. Some claimants seek compensation for detention benefits and support payments that were paid to staff who were detained or were otherwise unable to leave Iraq or Kuwait during Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. The claimants typically seek the costs of accommodation, food, communications and other humanitarian assistance provided to detained employees or their family members.

(b) Compensability

167. With regard to support provided to detainees, the Panel concludes that, pursuant to Governing Council decision 7, costs incurred in providing accommodation, food and other assistance to such persons are compensable in principle to the extent that such costs were reasonable in the circumstances. 102/ The Panel also refers to the finding in its third Panel report that a claim for costs incurred in facilitating communication between detainees and members of their family is compensable to the extent that such costs were reasonable in the circumstances. 103/

168. As to the provision of support to family members of detainees, the Panel applies its earlier finding that “such costs are compensable to the extent that they would not have been incurred in any event, were prompted by humanitarian considerations and were reasonable in amount”. 104/ Where, however, the costs are “discretionary expenses, such as payments for family holidays following the release of detainees”, or otherwise do not appear to be reasonable, these are not compensable in accordance with the Panel’s earlier determinations. 105/

169. The Panel applies the above findings to those claims under review for detention allowances. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations with respect to each claim are set forth in annex II.

4. Evacuation, relocation and repatriation costs

(a) Claims description

170. Many of the claimants seek to recover costs incurred in evacuating, relocating or repatriating employees and their dependants. The employees were located in Kuwait, Iraq and Saudi Arabia. The costs involved are for transportation out of this geographical area, as well as for lodging and food provided during such journeys.

171. In addition, a railway authority in Egypt seeks to recover the cost of rail transportation that it provided at no charge to approximately 28,000 nationals returning from Iraq and Kuwait from various gathering points at the Egyptian borders to their final home destinations in Egypt. An airline claimant in the Philippines also seeks compensation for costs incurred in a large-scale evacuation of its nationals from Iraq and Kuwait, which it conducted at the request of its Government.

(b) Compensability

172. The Panel recalls the findings in its E2(3) report that evacuation costs are compensable if actual military operations took place in, or a threat of military action was directed at, the location from which persons were evacuated. 106/ The Panel refers to its delineation of the areas subject to military operations and the threat of military action set forth at paragraph 96 above and finds that costs incurred in evacuating employees and their dependants from such locations are compensable in principle.

173. The Panel further considers the compensable types of evacuation costs. The Panel has previously determined that compensable evacuation costs are “temporary and extraordinary” expenses related to the repatriation of employees, including expenses incurred for transport, accommodation and food. The Panel also determined that “stop-over costs incurred at locations outside the home country of the evacuee, which are part of the on-going evacuation journey from [the compensable area] and which are not a significant interruption in that journey, are compensable on the same basis as costs incurred to evacuate individuals directly from these locations”. 107/ The Panel has further found that expenses related to repatriation that would have been incurred by a claimant in any event are not compensable. 108/

174. With reference to the evacuation of nationals by transport claimants, the Panel recalls the findings in its third report that costs incurred by claimant transport providers in evacuating non-employees from the compensable area are a consequence of the departure of persons from Iraq and Kuwait, within the meaning of paragraph 21(b) of decision 7, and are, therefore, directly caused the invasion. 109/

175. The Panel applies the above findings to those claims under review for evacuation, relocation and repatriation costs. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

5. Personal property reimbursement

(a) Claims description

176. Certain claimants seek compensation in respect of payments made to employees to reimburse them for the loss of personal property abandoned in the process of their evacuation from Iraq or Kuwait during the period of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

(b) Compensability

177. The Panel refers to the finding in its E2(3) report that payments made as reimbursement to employees for loss of personal property are compensable, in principle, "where [they] were made pursuant to legal obligations or otherwise appear justified and reasonable under the circumstances".
110/

178. The Panel applies the above findings to those claims under review for personal property reimbursement. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

6. Security and protective measures

(a) Claims description

179. A number of claimants who were operating in Saudi Arabia seek to recover the costs incurred in respect of security and protective measures. The claimants seek compensation for the costs of providing to their employees, inter alia, gas masks, medical kits, drinking water and food supplies.

(b) Compensability

180. The Panel has previously determined that the costs of reasonable protective measures designed to protect the lives of employees located in a compensable area are compensable in principle. 111/ The Panel notes that certain equipment will have retained a residual value after the cessation of hostilities. Accordingly, the Panel has made an adjustment to the recommended award, where appropriate, to reflect such residual value.

181. The Panel applies the above findings to those claims under review for security and protective measures. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

7. Provision of support to employees and their dependants

(a) Claims description

182. In addition to the costs incurred in effecting evacuations, claimants seek compensation for expenses incurred in providing support to employees and their dependants during the period that they were evacuated or otherwise unable to return to the area affected by military operations. Compensation is sought for the cost of accommodation, food, communications, transportation, education for the employees' dependants and general assistance in meeting day-to-day living expenses. In most cases, such support costs were incurred in the home countries of the employees or the home base of the claimant.

(b) Compensability

183. With regard to the claims for support costs incurred in respect of employees and their dependants who were relocated, the Panel determines that, where such costs were incurred in connection with employees and dependants formerly located in the compensable area, as defined in paragraph 96, such costs are compensable in principle. The criteria for compensable evacuation costs, set forth at paragraphs 172 to 173 above, apply. Thus, to the extent that such costs are "temporary and extraordinary" and would not have been incurred by a claimant in any event, such costs are compensable in principle. The Panel further finds that, to be compensable, the costs incurred must be reasonable in amount under the circumstances. 112/

184. The Panel applies the above findings to those claims under review for the provision of support to employees and their dependants. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

G. Loss of tangible property

1. Claims description

185. Several claimants seek compensation for a wide variety of tangible assets that were allegedly stolen, lost or destroyed in Iraq, Kuwait, Jordan or Saudi Arabia during the period of the invasion and occupation. The property in question typically includes household and office equipment, inventory, machinery and vehicles. In most cases, the property was under control of the claimant immediately prior to Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

186. Other claimants allege the loss of shipping containers in Iraq and Kuwait. Sometimes, the containers were owned by the claimants, while in other instances, the containers were leased. These claimants generally seek to recover the value of the containers or the payments they were required to make under lease agreements which provided for reimbursement to the lessor in the event that the containers were damaged or stolen, as well as the cost of hiring containers to replace the leased containers that were lost. In addition, one claimant alleges that some of its containers could not be delivered to Kuwait as scheduled after 2 August 1990 and were stranded in other ports for as long as several years where they could not be reused until authorization was obtained to open them. This claimant states that it incurred increased costs associated with the stranded containers (including hiring replacement containers and storing the stranded containers in ports).

187. Other claimants seek compensation for the value of vessels or, in the case of one claimant, a yacht damaged by Iraqi forces in Kuwait. Similarly, the Bangladeshi claimant described in paragraph 105 above seeks compensation for the value of its cargo vessel less its salvage value. 113/

2. Compensability

188. The Panel recalls its earlier determination that claims for lost tangible property are compensable in principle if the record shows that the claimant's assets were in Kuwait or Iraq as of 2 August 1990 and such assets were destroyed during Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait. 114/ In addition, the Panel must be satisfied that the value of the lost assets has been sufficiently established. The Panel also recalls that, with respect to claims for the loss of cash, a high level of scrutiny is applied because of the greater potential for fraudulent claims. 115/

189. With respect to claims for the value of containers lost in Iraq or Kuwait, the Panel finds that such claims are compensable to the extent that the claimant's ownership or interest in the containers and the presence of the containers in Iraq or Kuwait at the time of Iraq's invasion are established. In addition, with respect to owned containers, the Panel must be satisfied that the claimant demonstrates the value of the containers at the time of the loss; and, with respect to containers under lease, the Panel must be satisfied that the claimant reimbursed the lessor for the loss of the containers. With regard to claims for the cost of hiring containers to replace lost leased containers, the Panel finds that such claims are compensable to the extent that the claimant shows that it incurred such costs. The Panel also took into consideration the evidence provided by the claimants to show that such costs were a reasonable expense within the claimants' duty to mitigate its loss.

190. With respect to claims for costs associated with containers that were stranded in ports, the Panel finds that such costs are compensable to the extent that the claimant shows that the containers could not be delivered to their consignees in Iraq or Kuwait because of the invasion and occupation of Kuwait and that it incurred such costs. With regard to the cost of hiring replacement containers for those that were stranded, the Panel also considered the evidence provided to show that the claimant had taken appropriate steps to retrieve the containers and that the replacement costs were reasonably incurred.

191. With respect to the claims described in paragraph 187 above for the property value of vessels seized or detained in Kuwait during the hostilities, the Panel finds that the appropriate measure of compensation is the cost of retrieving and repairing the vessel. In the case of the damaged vessel later scuttled by Kuwaiti authorities, the Panel reduces the compensation to be awarded by that portion of the loss attributable to the independent business decisions of the claimant or of the Kuwaiti authorities rather than to Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

192. The Panel applies the above findings to those claims under review for the loss of tangible property. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

H. Loss of funds in bank accounts

1. Accounts in Iraq

(a) Claims description

193. A number of claimants seek compensation for funds held in bank accounts in Iraq, which the claimant could not access during and after Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

(b) Compensability

194. As determined by the Panel in its previous reports, claims for funds held in Iraqi bank accounts are compensable if, prior to Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait, the claimant had a reasonable expectation that it could transfer the funds outside Iraq, but such claims are not compensable if the funds were not exchangeable for foreign currency. 116/ As the claims under review relate to funds that the claimant could not reasonably have expected to transfer outside Iraq, no compensation is recommended.

2. Accounts in Kuwait

(a) Claims description

195. Several claimants seek compensation for funds held in bank accounts in Kuwait that could not be accessed during the invasion and occupation of Kuwait and thereafter.

(b) Compensability

196. Regarding funds held in bank accounts in Kuwait, the Panel applies the findings in its previous reports that such claims are not compensable unless the claimant has complied with the requirements of the Central Bank of Kuwait and is still denied access to the funds and can show that the denial of access was directly caused by the invasion. 117/ As none of the claimants seeking compensation for funds held in a Kuwaiti bank account meet these requirements, no compensation is recommended.

I. Loss of real property

1. Claims description

197. Several claimants, which owned or leased offices, accommodations, or other premises in Kuwait and Saudi Arabia, allege damages to their premises as a result of looting by Iraqi forces or scud missile attacks. The claimants seek compensation for the costs incurred in repairing the damaged premises.

2. Compensability

198. With respect to repair costs for real property in Kuwait, this Panel has previously found that such costs are compensable in principle, noting that they “were a widespread consequence of the destruction inflicted on the landscape of Kuwait in the course and immediate aftermath of Iraq’s invasion and occupation.” 118/ With respect to the repair costs for premises in Saudi Arabia, the Panel finds that, where a claimant has demonstrated that the damage for which compensation is claimed resulted from a specific military event, such as a scud missile attack, the requisite causal link between the loss or damage and Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait is established. 119/

199. The Panel applies the above findings to those claims under review for repair costs. The Panel also undertakes a further inquiry into each relevant claim to determine whether the specific loss asserted is direct, whether betterment resulted from the repair of damaged premises and whether the claim satisfies the evidentiary requirements set out in paragraph 19 above. Its recommendations are set forth in annex II.

J. Currency fluctuation losses

1. Claim description

200. Several claimants seek compensation for losses suffered due to the devaluation of their domestic currencies during or following Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. For example, an airline located in the Philippines alleges that the Gulf War caused a devaluation of the Philippine peso between August 1990 and March 1991, which in turn resulted in the depreciation of the claimant’s assets. The Turkish railway alleges that the completion of a railway improvement contract was delayed for almost two years due to the invasion and that, during this period, the Turkish lira decreased in value against the United States dollar, which was being used as the pricing index under the contract. As a result, the contract price, which was payable in Turkish lira, increased. An Irish claimant alleges currency losses due to the need to adopt an alternate payment mechanism following the imposition of a freeze order that prevented payment under a letter of credit.

2. Compensability

201. In Governing Council decision 15, it is stated at paragraph 5:

“In all cases, Commissioners will require evidence that claims fall within the criteria of direct loss as set out in paragraph 16 of resolution 687 in order for them to be eligible for compensation by the Compensation Fund. It will not be enough for claimants to argue that losses were due to the chaotic economic situation following Iraq’s unlawful invasion and occupation of Kuwait.”

202. The Panel notes that many factors may have affected the value of the claimants’ domestic currencies. In each case, the Panel finds that the claimant has failed to prove that the devaluation of the currency was the direct result of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait, rather than other market factors. 120/ Accordingly, the claims are not compensable.

V. INCIDENTAL ISSUES

A. Date of loss

203. The Panel must determine “the date the loss occurred” for the purpose of determining the appropriate exchange rate to be applied to losses stated in currencies other than in United States dollars, and with respect to the awarding of interest at a later date in accordance with Governing Council decision 16. The Panel is guided by its findings in its previous five reports, as well as the findings of other Panels. The date when the loss occurred depends most significantly on the character of the loss, and the following paragraphs address each loss type in turn.

204. With respect to the claims based on contract losses in this instalment, the Panel notes that the date of loss for each contract normally would depend on the facts and circumstances surrounding the non-performance of the contract. 121/ However, given the large number of contracts before the Commission and the significance of one event (i.e., Iraq’s invasion of Kuwait) on contractual relations, the Panel finds, as it did in its E2(3) report, that 2 August 1990 represents an appropriate and administrable date of loss for the contract claims now under consideration. 122/

205. With respect to claims for a decline in business or course of dealing leading to loss of profits or claims for increased costs, the Panel notes that such losses in this instalment were suffered over extended periods of time rather than at a particular moment or at particular moments. Given these circumstances, the Panel selects the mid-point of the relevant compensable period (including potential relevant primary or secondary periods, as the case may be) during which the particular loss occurred as the date of loss. 123/

206. With respect to claims for payment or relief to others, including evacuation costs, the Panel notes that such losses likewise have been incurred throughout the compensable period applicable to the geographic area for which the costs were incurred and, therefore, the Panel selects the mid-point of the compensable period as the date of loss for costs of this nature. 124/

207. With respect to claims for loss of tangible assets, the Panel selects 2 August 1990 as the date of loss, as that date generally coincides with the claimant’s loss of control over the assets in question in this instalment. 125/

208. Similarly, with respect to claims for loss of use of real property, in the present instalment, claimants have normally lost the ability to use property for which they had contracted and paid rent at 2 August 1990 and, accordingly, the Panel adopts this as the date of loss for such claims.

B. Currency exchange rate

209. Many of the claimants have advanced claims in currencies other than United States dollars. The Panel assesses all such claims and performs all claim calculations in the original currencies of the claims. Since the Commission issues its awards in United States dollars, the Panel must determine the appropriate rate of exchange to be applied to claims where the losses are alleged in other currencies. The Panel is guided by its previous findings, and by the views of other Panels. Particular rules are established for Kuwaiti dinars, set forth in paragraph 216 below, and for Special Drawing Rights (“XDRs”), set forth at paragraph 217 below.

210. Noting that all prior Commission compensation awards have looked to the United Nations Monthly Bulletin of Statistics (the “United Nations Monthly Bulletin”) for determining commercial exchange rates into United States dollars, the Panel adopts that source for the data to be utilized in exchange rate calculations.

211. For claims based on contract losses in this instalment, the Panel, noting that the date of loss set forth in paragraph 204 above for such claims is 2 August 1990, adopts the last available exchange rate unaffected by Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait, as reported in the United Nations Monthly Bulletin. 126/

212. For claims for decline in business or course of dealing leading to loss of profits and claims for increased costs the Panel decides that the appropriate rate will be the average of the rates reported in the United Nations Monthly Bulletin for the months over which the particular claimant is compensated. 127/

213. For claims for payment or relief to others within this instalment, including evacuation costs and security measures, the Panel, noting that the date of loss set forth in paragraph 205 above for such claims is the mid-point of the compensable period, decides that the appropriate rate will be the rate reported in the United Nations Monthly Bulletin for the month in which that mid-point falls. 128/

214. For claims for the loss of tangible assets, the Panel, noting that the date of loss set forth in paragraph 207 above for such claims is 2 August 1990, adopts the last available exchange rate unaffected by Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait, as reported in the United Nations Monthly Bulletin. 129/

215. For claims for the loss of real property, the Panel, noting that the date of loss set forth at paragraph 208 above is 2 August 1990, adopts the last available exchange rate unaffected by Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait, as reported in the United Nations Monthly Bulletin. 130/

216. The above rules apply to claims stated in currencies other than the Kuwaiti dinar. For claims denominated in Kuwaiti dinars, the Panel, noting the extreme fluctuation in the value of that currency during the period of occupation of Kuwait and the earlier findings of this and other Panels, adopts the rate of exchange for 2 August 1990, namely the last available exchange rate unaffected by Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait, as reported in the United Nations Monthly Bulletin. 131/

217. For claims denominated in XDRs, the Panel applies the rate of exchange, as reported in the International Financial Statistics of the International Monetary Fund, as of the relevant date of loss for the type of claim in question. 132/

C. Interest

218. Governing Council decision 16 states that “[i]nterest will be awarded from the date the loss occurred until the date of payment, at a rate sufficient to compensate successful claimants for the loss of use of the principal amount of the award”. The Governing Council further specified that it would consider the method of calculation and of payment of interest at a later date and that “[i]nterest will be paid after the principal amount of awards”.

219. With respect to the awarding of interest in accordance with Governing Council decision 16, the Panel notes that the dates of loss defined in paragraphs 203 to 208 above may be relevant to the later choice of the dates from which interest will accrue for all compensable claims.

D. Claims preparation costs

220. In a letter dated 6 May 1998, the Executive Secretary of the Commission advised the Panel that the Governing Council intends to resolve the issue of claims preparation costs at a future date. Accordingly, the Panel takes no action with respect to claims for such costs.

VI. RECOMMENDATIONS

221. Based on the foregoing, the Panel recommends that the amounts set out in annex II below, totalling USD 43,143,817 be paid in compensation for direct losses suffered by the claimants as a result of Iraq's unlawful invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

Geneva, 17 September 2001

(Signed) Mr. Bernard Audit
Chairman

(Signed) Mr. José María Abascal
Commissioner

(Signed) Mr. David D. Caron
Commissioner

Notes

1/ This figure includes amounts claimed for interest and claim preparation costs. As explained in paragraphs 218-219 of this report, the Governing Council will consider claims for interest, where an amount has been awarded for the principal sum claimed, at a future date. The Governing Council will also consider the issue of claim preparation costs at a later date.

2/ Based on the information before the Panel, the claimant in question had operated for many years as a business entity, its head office was located in Kuwait and Iraq held only a minority interest in this entity. Moreover, the Panel notes that the Rules do not require claimants to disclose shareholder information, and the panels do not, in practice, request such information. This Panel's decision is also consistent with the decision of the "E/F" Panel where it considered a claim by an insurer of the very same claimant. The "E/F" Panel found the insurer's claim for payments made to the claimant in question to be within the jurisdiction of the Commission inasmuch as the insurer's claim rested on a loss suffered by an entity that could have raised a claim before the Commission. See "Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the first instalment of 'E/F' claims" (the "E/F(1) report"), paragraphs 30 and 34-35, appendix III, as applied to UNCC claim no. 4002308.

3/ "Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the first instalment of 'E2' claims" (the "E2(1) report"), paragraphs 38-48.

4/ See, for example, "Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the third instalment of 'E2' claims" (the "E2(3) report"), paragraphs 180-182 (general methodology); "Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the second instalment of 'E2' claims" (the "E2(2) report"), paragraphs 146-152 (decline in business); E2(3) report, paragraphs 175-179 (verification procedures), 198-199 (contract losses), 200-201 (evacuation costs), 202 (payment or relief to others), 203-207 (tangible property and cash). See also methodology of "E2A" Panel in the "Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the sixth instalment of 'E2' claims" (the "E2(6) report"), paragraphs 117-119 and 126-127 (increased costs).

5/ See Governing Council decision 7, paragraph 25, and Governing Council decision 13, generally.

6/ To ensure that compensation is not recommended more than once for the same loss, the Panel has requested the secretariat to ascertain whether other claims have been submitted to the Commission with respect to the same projects, transactions, or property as those forming the subject matter of the claims under review. For each potentially compensable claim, the secretariat has searched the database of the Commission to ascertain whether another claim by the same claimant or by a related party has been filed. (For example, for claims based on evacuation costs, personal property reimbursement, salary or termination expenses, or other payment or relief allegedly incurred by the claimant company, a "related party" includes the claimant's employees or its government.) Where a related party is found, the secretariat then reviews the pertinent claim files to ascertain whether duplicate or overlapping claims exist. If compensation has been awarded in the related claim, the extent to which the prior award covers the same loss as the present claim is evaluated. The secretariat reports the results of this cross check investigation to the Panel and, as appropriate, the Panel takes the further action described in paragraph 17.

7/ “Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the seventh instalment of ‘E2’ claims” (the “E2(7) report”), paragraph 13; see also the “Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the fourth instalment of ‘E2’ claims” (the “E2(4) report”), paragraph 207.

8/ In the E2(4) report, paragraph 77, the “E2A” Panel recognized an exception to article 35 of the Rules where Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait made it impossible to gather the proof required, as described in note 14 below. The “E2A” Panel noted that this occurred, for example, in the case of records destroyed during Iraq’s invasion of Kuwait.

9/ In some instances, claimants failed to submit documents other than a claim form and a brief statement of claim. In others, claimants submitted reports prepared by in-house or consultant accountants or loss adjusters but failed to file the financial records supporting such reports.

10/ E2(1) report, paragraph 90.

11/ Governing Council decision 9, paragraph 6. See also Governing Council decision 7, paragraph 9, and Governing Council decision 15, paragraph 9.

12/ E2(1) report, paragraph 145. In this report, the Panel also observed:

“Adequate proof that a contracting party’s inability to perform resulted from Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait would include a showing that performance was no longer possible, for example because the contracting party, in the case of an individual, was killed, or in the case of a business, ceased to exist or was rendered bankrupt or insolvent, as a result of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait.” Ibid.

In its “Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the fifth instalment of ‘E2’ claims” (the “E2(5) report”), paragraph 75, the Panel determined that:

“it is not sufficient for a claimant merely to allege that the Kuwaiti party was adversely affected by Iraq’s invasion and occupation. The claimant must provide specific evidence to demonstrate that the Kuwaiti party’s inability to pay the debt was a direct result of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait”.

See also E2(2) report, paragraph 89; E2(3) report, paragraph 154

13/ E2(1) report, paragraph 145.

14/ In this regard, the Panel notes the determination of the “E2A” Panel that an exception may be made to the evidentiary requirements of paragraph 3 of article 35 of the Rules where a claimant has demonstrated that it was Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait which made it impossible for the claimant to gather the proof required, such as where records were destroyed during Iraq's invasion. See E2(4) report, paragraph 77.

15/ See E2(4) report, paragraph 203(d) (legal fees incurred in an effort to collect a compensable debt are a reasonable mitigation step and compensable).

16/ Although the amounts due under the letter of credit had various maturity dates, the payments blocked by the freezing order all fell due before 2 August 1991. Claimed amounts that fell due after 2 August 1991 are addressed by the Panel in paragraph 43.

20/ E2(4) report, paragraph 96. In such cases, the "E2A" Panel concluded that, in order to determine whether the exporter's claim is within the Commission's jurisdiction under the "arising prior to" clause, the Panel should look to the date on which the claimant had presented to the bank documents in conformity with the requirements of the letters of credit, as well as to the date of performance of the underlying transaction, for example, the date of shipment of the goods.

21/ E2(4) report, paragraphs 91-96; "Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the eighth instalment of 'E2' claims" (the "E2(8) report"), paragraph 66.

22/ As stated in the E2(1) report, paragraph 90: "In the case of contracts with Iraq, where the performance giving rise to the original debt had been rendered by a claimant more than three months prior to 2 August 1990, that is, prior to 2 May 1990, claims based on payments owed, in kind or in cash, for such performance are outside of the jurisdiction of the Commission as claims for debts or obligations arising prior to 2 August 1990."

27/ When decline in revenue awards are made, in order to avoid multiple compensation for the same loss, awards for unpaid receivables are taken into consideration. See E2(7) report, paragraph 39, note 22.

31/ E2(1) report, paragraph 173.

32/ E2(4) report, paragraph 115; see also E2(1) report, paragraph 145.

33/ The Panel notes that the “E2A” Panel has considered the compensability of such losses and concluded that “where the evidence shows that the freezing orders adopted by individual States were the sole cause of Iraq’s non-payment, the claim is not compensable, consistent with the provisions of Governing Council decision 9 [dealing with the trade embargo and related measures]”. See E2(4) report, paragraph 116; E2(6) report, paragraph 41. In those cases, Iraq authorized payment prior to its invasion and occupation of Kuwait and the “E2A” Panel found the freezing order to be the sole cause of non-payment in those instances.

34/ E2(1) report, paragraph 118.

35/ “The compensable area” is an area previously delineated by the Panel as having been subject to actual military operations or the threat of military action for defined periods, as summarized in paragraph 96 above. See E2(3) report, paragraph 77.

45/ The Panel notes that, in addition to claims for work performed prior to the interruption of a contract, there are also claims in this instalment for the loss of the profits that would have been earned on the remaining unperformed portion of the contract. Such claims are addressed in paragraphs 67 to 70 above.

58/ E2(5) report, paragraph 140.

59/ E2(4) report, paragraph 155.

60/ In its E2(4) report, the “E2A” Panel considered exporters’ claims for the unpaid purchase price of goods lost or destroyed in Kuwait prior to delivery to a Kuwaiti buyer. In light of the circumstances prevailing in Kuwait, the “E2A” Panel concluded that, in the absence of evidence to the contrary, “where [non-perishable] goods arrived at a Kuwaiti seaport on or after 2 July 1990 or at a Kuwaiti airport on or after 17 July 1990 and could not thereafter be located by the claimant, an inference can be made that the goods were lost or destroyed as a direct result of Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait”. The “E2A” Panel has also determined that, for shipments made prior to these dates, specific evidence is required to demonstrate that the losses resulted directly from Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. See E2(4) report, paragraphs 145-147; E2(6) report, paragraph 60.

61/ See note 35 above.

62/ See note 35 above.

63/ In respect of claims by subcontractors or suppliers, the Panel found in its first report that, under Governing Council decision 9, paragraph 10, Iraq’s liability extends to losses suffered in connection with contracts to which Iraq was not a party, including subcontractor arrangements. See E2(1) report, paragraph 145, note 56. Additional findings in this regard by the “E2A” Panel are found in the E2(4) report, paragraphs 204-212; E2(6) report, paragraphs 84-85; E2(8) report, paragraphs 113-114.

64/ See, e.g., E2(8) report, paragraph 113.

66/ See, e.g., E2(2) report, paragraphs 73-78.

67/ Governing Council decision 9, paragraph 11.

68/ See the E2(2) report, paragraph 59, and the E2(6) report, paragraph 93, for similar findings.

69/ In its E2(2) report, this Panel concluded at paragraph 64 that “military operations” included both “actual and specific activities by Iraq in its invasion and occupation of Kuwait, or by the Allied Coalition in its efforts to remove Iraq’s presence from Kuwait”. In its E2(1) report, this Panel considered the meaning of a “threat of military action” and at paragraphs 158–163, concluded that a “threat” of military action outside of Kuwait must be a “credible and serious threat that was intimately connected to Iraq’s invasion and occupation” and within the actual military capability of the entity issuing the threat, as judged in light of “the actual theatre of military operations during the relevant period”.

70/ E2(2) report, paragraph 81.

71/ E2(2) report, paragraph 142.

72/ The Panel’s findings in its E2(3) report, that the airline sector is generally adaptable to changing circumstances and that compensation would not be awarded beyond 2 March 1991 to the airline claimants in that instalment, does not apply to the claim based on an interrupted course of dealing with Kuwait Airways, for the reasons described above.

79/ E.g., E2(7) report, paragraphs 20-26.

80/ E2(3) report, paragraphs 133-134.

81/ The Panel notes that certain loss of profit claims were denied in its third instalment where transportation claimants neither had a presence nor conducted operations in the compensable area, but rather relied on the business activities of customers there. See E2(3) report, paragraph 137. The denial of these claims in the E2(3) instalment, however, reflected the failure of the claims to satisfy the evidentiary requirements of paragraph 11 of Governing Council decision 9, as it was not established that a consistent level of profitability had been realized from the dealings in question nor that the alleged losses were a direct result of Iraq's invasion and occupation of Kuwait.

82/ E2(7) report, paragraphs 20-26. The Panel determined that the requirements of paragraph 11 of Governing Council decision 9 were met by telecommunication claimants which had a regular course of dealing with Iraq and Kuwait under bilateral agreements that, although not guaranteeing any particular volume of exchanges, set forth obligations to handle international telecommunication exchange services and the basic tariffs for such services.

83/ "Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the second instalment of 'F2' claims" (the "F2(2) report"), paragraph 40, adopted in E2(7) report, paragraph 86.

84/ E2(1) report, paragraph 234; E2(5) report, paragraphs 135-136.

86/ E2(3) report, paragraphs 157-158; E2(5) report 136; E2(7) report, paragraph 122.

87/ In a letter dated 6 May 1998, the Executive Secretary of the Commission advised the Panel that the Governing Council will consider the issue of claims preparation costs at a future date. Accordingly, the Panel makes no determination with respect to such claims (see paragraph 220 above).

88/ E2(1) report, paragraph 239; E2(5) report, paragraph 140; E2(7) report, paragraph 97.

89/ E2(3) report, paragraphs 94-95.

90/ Ibid., paragraph 96.

91/ Ibid., paragraph 93.

92/ Ibid., paragraph 92.

93/ E2(4) report, paragraphs 162 and 203(d).

94/ Paragraph 22 of Governing Council decision 7 establishes that compensation is "available to reimburse payments made or relief provided by corporations or other entities to others ... for losses covered by any of the criteria adopted by the Council". Among the criteria for direct losses, paragraph 21 of Governing Council 7 specifies those losses that were suffered as a result of the "departure of persons from or their inability to leave Iraq or Kuwait" between the period of 2 August 1990 and 2 March 1991. In finding that claims for payments to relief organizations provided by Governments are compensable, the "F1" Panel relied on paragraph 36 of Governing Council decision 7, which contains virtually identical language to that set forth in paragraphs 21 and 22. See the "Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the fourth instalment of 'F1' claims" (the "F1(4) report"), paragraph 20.

95/ “Report and recommendations made by the Panel of Commissioners concerning the first instalment of ‘F2’ claims” (the “F2(1) report”), paragraphs 30 and 34.

96/ F1(4) report, paragraph 21. As described by the “F1” Panel, the conditions under which government contributions to relief organizations satisfy the directness requirement are as follows:

“First, the purpose of the contribution must be to respond to a state of necessity in the form of a specific and urgent need that resulted directly from Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait. Such a state of necessity might be evidenced, for example, by an appeal from an international organization for contributions for such a specific purpose. Second, the contributions must have been for losses that are covered by any of the criteria adopted by the Governing Council. Third, the contribution must have been actually used to respond to the specific and urgent need.”

97/ F2(1) report, paragraph 48. The “F2” Panel noted that claimants demonstrated that due to the sheer number of evacuees entering Jordan and the urgent nature of the assistance given to them, expenditures relating to emergency humanitarian relief could not be documented in the usual manner.

98/ F2(1) report, paragraph 51. The “F2” Panel calculated the loss incurred by the Government of Jordan in providing relief to evacuees by determining the estimate of the total amount spent in the global emergency relief less the total donations and contributions made to the government for purposes of assisting in the relief effort.

99/ See, e.g., E2(3) report, paragraphs 145-146 (costs in facilitating communication between detained employees and their family members; establishing crisis centres for family members; payment of medical fees for family members); E2(7) report, paragraph 108 (humanitarian support to family members of detained employees).

100/ See, e.g., E2(3) report, paragraphs 80-81 and 164 (costs incurred by airline and shipping companies in evacuating non-employees are compensable on the same basis as for employees).

Annex I

LIST OF REASONS STATED IN ANNEX II FOR DENIAL IN WHOLE OR PART OF THE CLAIMED AMOUNT

No.	Reason stated in annex II	a. Explanation
COMPENSABILITY
1.	“Arising prior to” exclusion.	All or part of the claim is based on a debt or obligation of Iraq that arose prior to 2 August 1990 and is outside the jurisdiction of the Commission pursuant to resolution 687 (1991).
2.	Part or all of loss is not direct.	The type of loss in whole or part, is in principle not a direct loss within the meaning of Security Council resolution 687 (1991).
3.	Part or all of loss is outside compensable period.	All or part of the loss occurred outside the period of time during which the Panel has determined that a loss may be directly related to Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait.
4.	Part or all of loss is outside compensable area.	All or part of the loss occurred outside the geographical area within which the Panel has determined that a loss may be directly related to Iraq’s invasion and occupation of Kuwait.
5.	Part or all of claim is unsubstantiated.	The claimant has failed to file documentation substantiating its claim; or, where documents have been provided, these are not sufficient to demonstrate the circumstances or amount of part or all of the claimed loss as is required under article 35 of the Rules.
6.	No proof that part or all of the loss is direct.	The claimant has failed to submit sufficient evidence to demonstrate that the loss was a direct result of the invasion and occupation of Kuwait.
7.	No proof of actual loss.	The claimant has not established that any loss was suffered.
8.	Failure to comply with formal filing requirements.	The claimant has failed to meet the formal requirements for the filing of claims as specified under article 14 of the Rules.
9.	Non-compensable bank balance held in Iraq.	The claimant has not established that the funds were exchangeable for foreign currency and, accordingly, that it had a reasonable expectation that it could transfer the funds out of Iraq.
10.	Trade embargo is sole cause.	The loss claimed was caused exclusively by the application of the trade embargo or related measures imposed by or in implementation of resolution 661 (1990) and other relevant resolutions.
11.	Loss is not compensable under Governing Council decision 19.	The claim related to costs in connection with operations of the Allied Coalition Forces.

VALUATION
12.	Insufficient evidence of value of claimed loss.	The claimant has not produced sufficient evidence to prove the value of the claimed loss. The claimant has either failed to file any documentation to establish the value of the loss; or, where documents have been provided, these do not sufficiently support the value of part or all of the loss.
13.	Calculated loss is less than loss alleged.	Applying the Panel's valuation methodology, the value of the claim was assessed to be less than that asserted by the claimant.
14.	Failure to establish appropriate efforts to mitigate.	The claimant has not taken such measures as were reasonable in the circumstances to minimize the loss as is required under paragraph 6 of Governing Council decision 9 and paragraph 9 (IV) of decision 15.
15.	Reduction to avoid multiple recovery.	Although the claim is found to be eligible, the Panel concludes that an award has already been made for the same loss in this or another claim before the Commission. Accordingly, the amount of compensation already awarded for this loss has been deducted from the compensation calculated for the present claim, in keeping with Governing Council decision 13, paragraph 3.
OTHER GROUNDS
16.	Interest.	The issue of methods of calculation and of payment of interest will be considered by the Governing Council at the appropriate time pursuant to Governing Council decision 16. Moreover, where the Panel has recommended that no compensation be paid for the principal amounts claimed, a nil award amount is recommended for interest claimed on such principal amounts.
17.	Principle sum not compensable.	Where the Panel has recommended that no compensation be paid for the principal amounts claimed, a nil award amount is recommended for interest claimed on such principal amounts.
18.	Claim preparation costs.	The issue of claim preparation costs is to be resolved by the Governing Council at a future date.

NOTES TO TABLE OF RECOMMENDATIONS

- a/ In accordance with the Governing Council's decision taken at its twenty-seventh session held in March 1998, the Panel has not considered unsolicited supplements or amendments submitted after 11 May 1998 to previously filed claims. Accordingly, the total claimed amounts stated in this table include only those supplements and amendments to the original claimed amounts submitted prior to 11 May 1998 or submitted after that date where these comply with the requirements of the Commission. The Panel observes that, in a few cases, there were discrepancies between the total amount asserted by the claimant in the claim form and the sum of the individual loss items stated by the claimant in the statement of claim. In such circumstances, the Panel adopts the total value asserted in the claim form.
- b/ Currency codes: AED (United Arab Emirates dinar), AUD (Australian dollar), BEF (Belgian franc), BHD (Bahraini dinar), CYP (Cyprus pound), DEM (Deutsche Mark), EGP (Egyptian pound), FRF (French franc), GBP (Pound sterling), GRD (Greek Drachma), IEP (Irish pound), INR (Indian rupee), IQD (Iraqi dinar), ITL (Italian lira), JOD (Jordanian dinar), JPY (Japanese Yen), KWD (Kuwaiti dinar), NLG (Dutch Guilder), PKR (Pakistan rupee), PLZ (Polish zloty), SAR (Saudi Arabian riyal), SGD (Singapore dollar), TRL (Turkish lira), USD (United States dollar), XDR (Special Drawing Rights), XFO (Gold franc).
- c/ In the column entitled "Total amount claimed restated in USD", for claims originally expressed by the claimant in currencies other than United States dollars, the secretariat has converted the amount claimed to United States dollars based on August 1990 rates of exchange as indicated in the United Nations Monthly Bulletin of Statistics, or in cases where this exchange rate is not available, the latest exchange rate available prior to August 1990. This conversion is made solely to provide an indication of the amount claimed in United States dollars for comparative purposes. In contrast, the date of the exchange rate that was applied to calculate the recommended amount is described in paragraphs 211 to 219 above.
- d/ In the columns under the heading entitled "Reclassified amount", the Panel has re-categorized certain of the losses using standard classifications, as appropriate, since many claimants have presented similar losses in different ways (see columns entitled "Type of loss" and "Subcategory"). This procedure is intended to ensure consistency, equality of treatment and fairness in the analysis of the claims and is consistent with the practice of the Commission.

f/ The secretariat has recalculated the amount claimed in the currency of the original loss which, on occasion, has been different from the amount stated in the claim form.

g/ The asserted total value of losses forming the subject matter of this claim is subject to deductions for compensation previously awarded by the Commission or for insurance payments disclosed by the claimant. Such deductions have been taken into account in calculating the compensation recommended.
